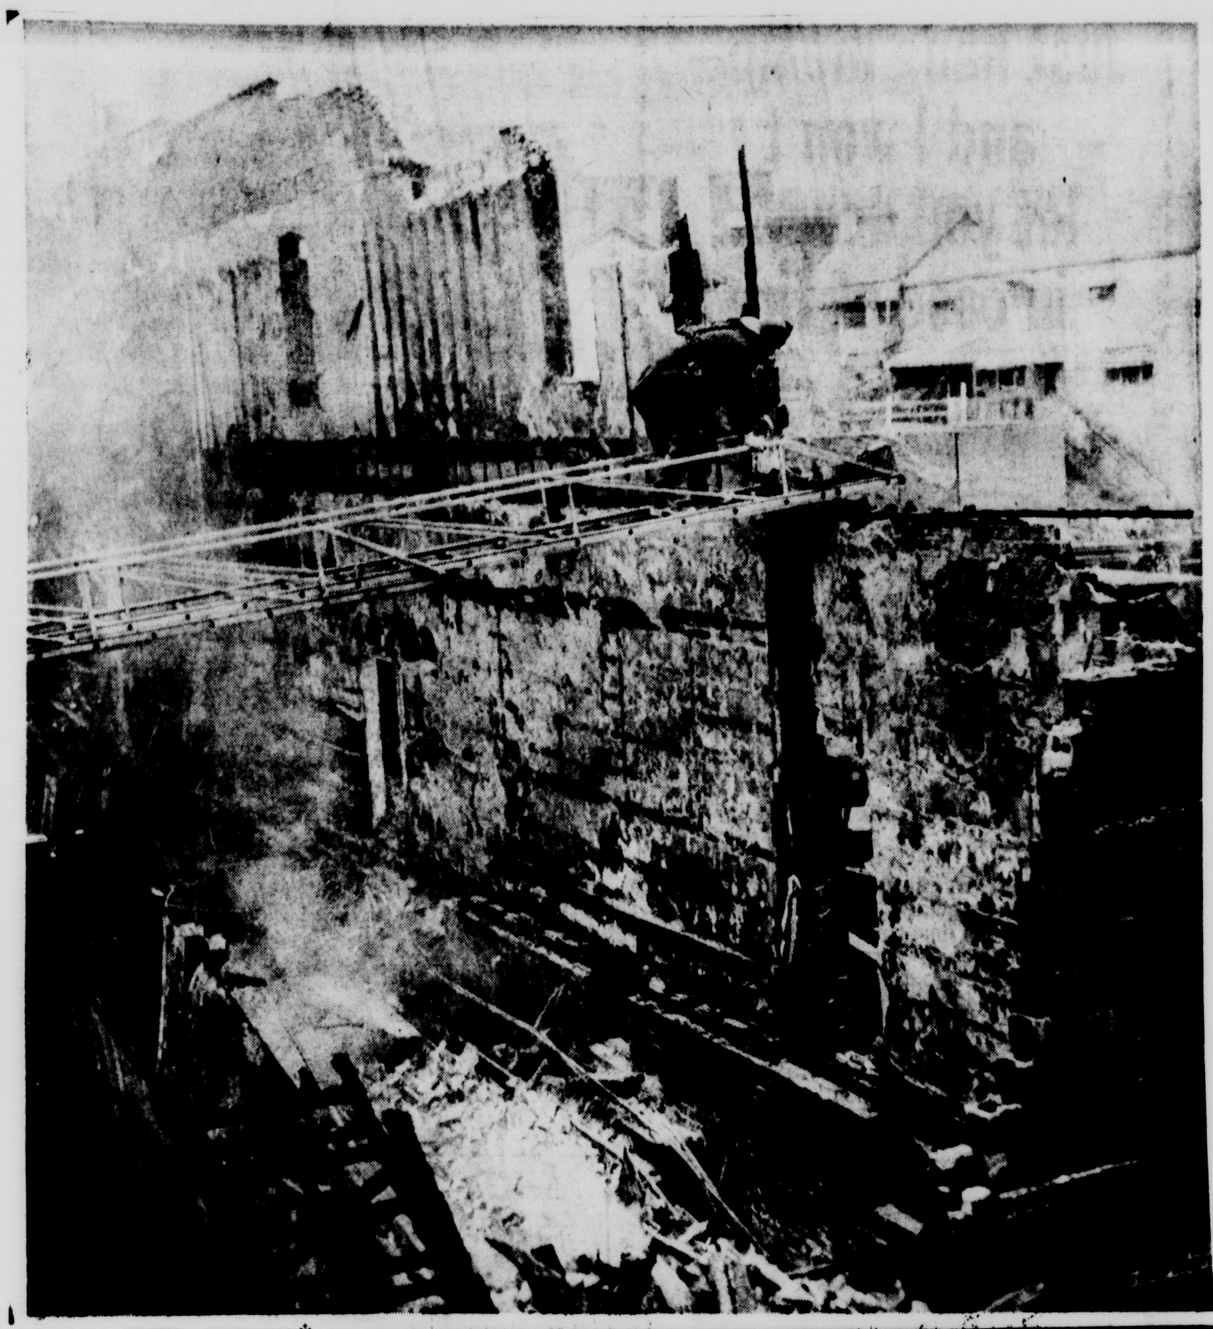
Midland Fire Loss Set At $125,000



Nick Deramo, operator of the 30-year-old Deramo's Restaurant, a Midland landmark destroyed in a $125,000 fire early Sunday, said today he has no immediate plans for rebuilding.

Firemen continued an investigation of the blaze which gutted the restaurant, bar and an upstairs apartment from which a young couple and their son, 2, were rescued by ladder.

FIREMEN from three departments battled the fire, which broke out about 2 a. m. and was spotted shortly before 3 by a passing taxi cab driver.

Two volunteer firemen were injured slightly, in the blaze, which was brought under control about 5 a. m.

Midland police received the call at 2:55 from John Varavette of 453 rear Midland Ave., cab driver, who was driving past the structure at 118 Midland Ave., saw smoke and heard someone calling for help.

Patrolman William Monac was first at the scene in a cruiser and found Kenneth Caldabaugh, 22, his wife, Barbara, 21, and their son, Kenneth Jr., standing on a balcony at the front of the building. Dense smoke was pouring from the structure and the couple apparently could not leave their apartment.

MONAC CALMED the family until the first fire truck arrived, then Monac and Patrolman Chester (Bud) Cook brought them down a fire ladder.

Caldabaugh said they were asleep when awakened by the smell of smoke and found themselves unable to leave the apartment by the stairs. Mrs. Caldabaugh, expecting a child next month, and the boy were taken to East Liverpool Osteopathic Hospital and released.

Fire Chief Vincent D'Itri said the blaze may have started as much as an hour before it was discovered.

The flames broke out in the kitchen area near a french fryer and stove, Chief D'Itri said.

Chief D'Itri said Mrs. Deramo reported she had smelled what she thought was burning rubber earlier in the evening and had attempted to locate it. However, the odor disappeared, and she forgot about it.

A People's Natural Gas Co. crew checked the building yesterday and reported all lines in order.

A minor blaze broke out at 1 a.m. today in the Studen building adjacent to the Deramo structure, but a skeleton firemen crew on duty at the site quickly quelled it.

FIREMEN AT yesterday morning's blaze sprayed the Studen building, of special concern because of paint and building supplies stored there by George Studen, a contractor.

This morning's blaze apparently was ignited from the heat of the previous fire.

An estimated 50 firemen from Midland, Ohioville and Industry fought the flames early Sunday and traffic was blocked on Midland Ave. from Springlane to 4th St.

Two Midland trucks and one each from Ohioville and Industry were used.

Firemen climbed to the roofs of the Studen building and the home of Gino Flara on the other side of the restaurant to play water on the two structures, and both received only minor damage.

Two Midland firemen suffered slight injuries — Jack Balser, an ankle injury, and Andy Rosepiler, a laceration of the hand.

Both were treated at the Cru-

U.S. Planes Blast North, Delta Areas

Massive 'Triangle' Drive Lists 1,219 Enemy Casualties

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Operation Cedar Falls, the big allied push through the "iron triangle," entered its third week today and American forces reported 1,219 of the enemy killed, captured or surrendered.

The massive drive through jungle and scrub territory 20 to 30 miles north of Saigon also has yielded a record haul of 3,560 tons of Viet Cong rice.

U. S. jet bombers kept up their pounding of North Vietnam's Red River Delta and again tangled with Communist MIGs northwest of Hanoi in "MIG Valley."

Four U. S. Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs engaged an equal number of MIG17s Sunday and fired at least one air-to-air missile against the swept-wing Communist jets, the spokesman said. But the brief engagement ended with no damage to either side, he said.

Four American planes were shot down Saturday — three in North Vietnam and one in South Vietnam — and seven airmen were reported lost in the North and the South. Two Army helicopters also were shot down near Saigon Saturday, but damage to one was minor and only two crew members were wounded on the other.

The total number of planes reported lost in the air war against North Vietnam rose to 465.

Hearings Begin Tonight

Ohio Legislators Will Have 'Time' On Their Hands

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's lawmakers return to work tonight with "time" on their hands—Both the question of uniform statewide time and an approaching deadline for getting two proposals on the May ballot.

House—Senate hearings are set to begin on bills that would exempt Ohio from the federal Uniform Time Act and another one to make its laws comply with the same act.

At stake is whether the state will remain on Eastern Standard Time the year around, as proposed in the first two measures, or switch to hour-fast Day light Savings Time for the summer months as proposed in the third.

Under the federal act, Ohio will observe daylight time statewide effective the last Sunday in April unless it passes a law adopting standard time. It takes 90 days for a bill to become law after the governor signs it.

The question already has stirred a lot of controversy in the young session with battle lines drawn generally between farm groups favoring standard time and city dwellers who like daylight time.

Legislative leaders have withheld predictions on the matter although it would seem the metropolitan areas have the upper hand in the newly apportioned assembly where they have more representation.

Both ballot proposals are being readied by the administration of GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes who disclosed the second only last Friday at a news conference.

It would change the constitution to allow creation of an Ohio building authority which could invest funds without voter approval for capital improvements.

The other resolution to be offered by the administration would place the state's temporary reapportionment plan before voters asking their approval for use until after the 1970 census.

The two ballot proposals would require three-fifths votes in both houses before being filed with Secretary of State Ted W. Brown. He has a Feb. 16 deadline for prescribing to local election boards the form of the May 2 ballot.

Leaders indicated the legislature will put in a full four-days this week for the first time since the session convened Jan. 2.

Administration's Also Asking More Vietnam War Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration bids on Capitol Hill today for approval of a U.S.-Soviet consular pact and more money for the Vietnam war.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, in testimony at an open hearing of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, argues the case for Senate ratification of the consular convention signed in 1964. It would pave the way for each country to open consulates outside the capital of the other but faces opposition.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, are to tell a closed meeting of the Senate Armed Services Committee and the Defense Appropriations subcommittee why $9.4 billion more is needed for the war this fiscal year.

McNamara and Wheeler also are to explain the Defense Department's $73-billion request for the budget year beginning next July 1.

The administration spokesmen are expected to run into critical questioning from both hard line and soft line foreign policy advocates.

In advance of the Foreign Relations Committee session Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he hopes the committee will act "on the merits of the convention" and not be swayed by a mail campaign mounted by conservative groups opposing the agreements.

The committee approved the convention regulating U.S.-Soviet consular affairs in 1965. But Mansfield said in an interview that he held up Senate action "on my own responsibility" in the last Congress.

Snipers Fight With Guards In Nicaragua

10 To 20 Killed And 20 Wounded In Election Strife

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Rooftop snipers firing automatic weapons battled the Nicaraguan National Guard in Managua Sunday night after a pre - election demonstration against the Somoza machine. Casualty reports said 10 to 20 persons were killed and about 20 wounded.

Street fighting broke out after a political rally in which Fernando Aguero, the opposition Conservative party's presidential candidate, called for a general strike to "demand electoral guarantees" for the Feb. 5 elections.

The government rushed reinforcements into the city, and National Guard vehicles cruised the streets urging the snipers to surrender. As the number of wounded increased, hospitals asked for blood donors. Two fires raged in the city.

Unofficial reports said government forces suffered some casualties.

President Lorenzo Guerrero was reported in Leon, a city 62 miles from Managua.

With the approach of the presidential elections, the political atmosphere has become tense. Opposition parties have been unsuccessful in their attempt to get the elections postponed for a year.

Spring-Like Weather Due To Continue

The spring - like weather is due to continue at least through Tuesday, according to the weatherman.

The forecast is for partly cloudy and mild tonight and Tuesday, with tonight's low ranging between 40 and 46.

The thermometer soared unofficially today into the 60's in some sections of the tri - state district.

Chou Commits Army To Crush Mao's Foes

Revolt Crackles In China

TOKYO (AP) — Premier Chou En-lai reportedly committed Red China's 2.5-million-man army to crush Mao Tse-tung's opponents as news of revolt and resistance crackled out of the embattled mainland today from frozen Manchuria to Kwangtung in the south.

Japanese newsmen, quoting Peking wall posters, said Chou's announcement at a rally in Peking Sunday was the first statement by a top government official that troops would be used against Mao's foes.

The posters said Chou declared: "The People's Liberation Army is the most important tool of the dictatorship of the proletariat. It will resolutely suppress the handful of counter-revolutionary elements who are trying to destroy the proletarian great cultural revolution."

Japanese correspondents in Peking also reported purge chairman Chen Po-ta and Mao's wife, Chiang Ching, had ordered the people of the capital to establish a revolutionary city government composed of workers, peasants, soldiers, revolutionary students and teachers.

Quoting wall posters, the correspondents said 40 Maoists were injured, 10 captured and many were missing after a clash with students and workers supporting President Liu Shao-chi in the Manchurian industrial city of Chang Chun Jan. 21. The posters said the "reactionaries" were assembling a force of 60,000 persons from the Manchurian provinces of Kirin, Liaoning, and Heilunkiang to give battle to "revolutionary rebels" converging on Chang Chun.

Chinese arriving in Hong Kong from Kwangtung said Mao's opponents there had been encouraged by reports that an anti-Mao army of peasants, workers and former soldiers had seized control of much of neighboring Kiangsi Province.

Western sources in Hong Kong said there were strong indications of sharply increased opposition to Mao in some areas of Kwangtung but cautioned that the reported "army" probably was no more than a group of Mao's opponents armed with clubs and hand weapons fashioned from farm and factory tools.

The arrivals from Canton also reported continued fighting between anti-Mao and pro-Mao forces in Kiangsi Province and the arrest or capture of some anti-Mao leaders in Nanchang, provincial capitol of Kiangsi.

They said the Kiangsi news had been received in Canton via radio broadcasts from Nanchang Sunday night.

Auditor Plans 3rd Term Bid At Wellsville

Auditor Edgar S. Davidson of Wellsville, a Republican, filed today with the County Election Board to seek nomination for his third full term in the primary election May 2.

Two others entered over the weekend, boosting to 35 the number now filed officially for the primaries in four cities and three major villages.

George Archibald filed for the Republican nomination as city auditor in East Palestine and Floyd Crawford, a Republican, entered for the Republican nomination for First Ward councilman at Salem.

Davidson became auditor nine years ago when he was appointed to serve a little over a year in an unexpired term. Davidson was city treasurer at the time he was named auditor. He has since been elected to two four-year terms.

An organizer of the Wellsville Historical Society, he is clerk-treasurer of the Carnegie Library Board at Wellsville and formerly served as its president.

Employed as a watch repairman at Shingler's Jewelry on Main St., he resides at 625 15th St. Married, Davidson is a member of the Covenant United Presbyterian Church and the Wellsville Masonic Lodge.

Johnson Asks 15% Hike

Boost Aged Aid, Congress Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress today to raise Social Security benefits by 15 per cent and 59 per cent in the lowest bracket and said such an increase will be "a major step toward our goal that every elderly citizen has an adequate income and meaningful retirement."

Johnson's proposal, which he said would guarantee minimum benefits of $70 a month for individuals and $105 a month for married couples, also includes a recommendation for increased Social Security taxes, both by raising the taxable base and by increasing rates.

The President asked Congress to increase the amount of annual income on which taxes are collected to $7,800 next year, $9,000 in 1971, and $10,800 in 1974.

He also asked Congress to revise rate increase already scheduled, going from 4.4 to 4.5 per cent in 1969 and from 4.85 per cent in 1973 to 5 per cent.

Johnson recommended that the amount Social Security recipients can earn without losing trip benefits be increased to $1,680 a year and that the amount above that for which a beneficiary can retain $1 in payments for each $2 in earnings be increased to $2,880.

The increased benefits had been sketched in broad outline in Johnson's State of the Union message.

He called in the earlier communication for the rise from $44 to $70 in minimum benefits, and a guarantee of $100 a month for persons with 25 years or more of coverage.

The State of the Union message did not go into the tax increase to pay for the increased benefits.

The proposed increase in Social Security taxes would increase the maximum amount paid by an individual to $343.20 in 1968 and to $351.00 in 1969.

Group Urges Support For School Levy

SALINEVILLE — A final appeal for support of a proposed 4.5-mill Southern Local School District levy was issued today by a citizens' committee backing the levy in Tuesday's special election.

Jack Hiscox of near Lisbon said additional operating funds are needed for the district, and the cost of the levy — which would go into effect in 1968 — would cost the average home owner only about $1.25 a month.

Polls will open at 6 a. m. and

Revolt Crackles In China

TOKYO (AP) — Premier Chou En-lai reportedly committed Red China's 2.5-million-man army to crush Mao Tse-tung's opponents as news of revolt and resistance crackled out of the embattled mainland today from frozen Manchuria to Kwangtung in the south.

Japanese newsmen, quoting Peking wall posters, said Chou's announcement at a rally in Peking Sunday was the first statement by a top government official that troops would be used against Mao's foes.

The posters said Chou declared: "The People's Liberation Army is the most important tool of the dictatorship of the proletariat. It will resolutely suppress the handful of counter-revolutionary elements who are trying to destroy the proletarian great cultural revolution."

Japanese correspondents in Peking also reported purge chairman Chen Po-ta and Mao's wife, Chiang Ching, had ordered the people of the capital to establish a revolutionary city government composed of workers, peasants, soldiers, revolutionary students and teachers.

Quoting wall posters, the correspondents said 40 Maoists were injured, 10 captured and many were missing after a clash with students and workers supporting President Liu Shao-chi in the Manchurian industrial city of Chang Chun Jan. 21. The posters said the "reactionaries" were assembling a force of 60,000 persons from the Manchurian provinces of Kirin, Liaoning, and Heilunkiang to give battle to "revolutionary rebels" converging on Chang Chun.

Chinese arriving in Hong Kong from Kwangtung said Mao's opponents there had been encouraged by reports that an anti-Mao army of peasants, workers and former soldiers had seized control of much of neighboring Kiangsi Province.

Western sources in Hong Kong said there were strong indications of sharply increased opposition to Mao in some areas of Kwangtung but cautioned that the reported "army" probably was no more than a group of Mao's opponents armed with clubs and hand weapons fashioned from farm and factory tools.

The arrivals from Canton also reported continued fighting between anti-Mao and pro-Mao forces in Kiangsi Province and the arrest or capture of some anti-Mao leaders in Nanchang, provincial capitol of Kiangsi.

They said the Kiangsi news had been received in Canton via radio broadcasts from Nanchang Sunday night.

Paul Wukotich, a partner in the station, said the burglary occurred between 8 p. m. Saturday and 8 a. m. Sunday.

The same deputies investigated a burglary at the Crawford coal mine on Route 7, south of Rogers.

At News Conference

Rhodes Insists He Won't Be Candidate In 1968

NEW ORLEANS (AP)— Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes has taken himself out of the running as a Republican candidate for President or vice president in 1968.

"I will not be a candidate, that's right," he answered emphatically when the question was put to him at a news conference Sunday night.

Rhodes' name has been mentioned as a possible compromise candidate if neither Michigan Gov. George Romney nor former Vice President Richard Nixon make the grade at the 1968 GOP convention.

"We have no concern for any national office," Rhodes said when he was asked if he would consider running on a ticket headed by California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Rhodes said he would concentrate on solving problems in Ohio and that he considered his election as a contract with the people.

When asked if he would reconsider if either the nomination for President or vice president were offered him, he said, "I have no knowledge of any reconsideration."

The governor refused to comment on his preference for the GOP nomination for President.

"I have never placed myself in the position of a seer or analyst," he said when asked about the GOP's chances for victory in 1968.

"Many things can happen in the next 18, 19 or 20 months."

Rhodes said he would make a pitch for the Republican National Convention to be held in either Cleveland or Cincinnati.

He said he believed either city could meet the Republican National Committee's criteria for hotel and motel accommodations.

The governor was in New Orleans for a two-fold purpose: To attend the GOP National Committee meeting and to accept an award from the Society of Industrial Realtors naming Ohio's industrial development program as the best in the country.

Drivers Cited Following 2 Auto Mishaps

A Chester man whose car hit a tree and a Lisbon area youth whose truck struck the rear of an auto were cited by the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon over the weekend.

Frank J. Swecker, 42, of 191 2nd St., Chester, was charged with speeding Saturday night after his 1959 auto veered off Park Way Ext. and struck a tree about a third of a mile north of the city limits.

Officers said he was headed south and missed a curve. There was extensive damage to the front of the auto in the 9:15 p.m. mishap.

Alan Howard Buzzard, 17, of Lisbon R.D. was charged with failure to stop in the assured clear distance after his 1954 dump truck bumped the rear of an auto in the substation area about a half-mile north of Route 170 Saturday morning.

He was headed east when his truck hit the rear of the 1961 sedan operated by Roberta Lee Gulutz, 29, of the Y. & O. Rd., who had halted at the intersection of Route 30 and the Y. & O. Rd., officers said.

The undercarriage of a 1965 coach operated by Calvin C. Beck, 26, of Salem was damaged Sunday morning when it struck a large stone which had rolled onto Route 45 from an embankment just south of Route 14.

The world's largest geyser is in Yellowstone Park.

2 Area Youths Hospitalized, 18 Others Hurt On Weekend

A Chester youth with a back injury received in a fall and another city youth with a foot fractured by a large stone were admitted Saturday to City Hospital, where 18 other area residents were treated over the weekend.

Michael Ludovici, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dom Ludovici of 417 Phyllis Ave., Chester, was in "guarded" condition today with a back injury and possible internal injuries received in a fall from a swing.

James A. Walton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Walton of 212 E. 3rd St., was in "satisfactory" condition with a fractured left foot sustained when a large stone fell on his foot.

Blaze Levels District Home

Fire virtually destroyed the home of Everett Alford of the McCormick Rd. in Madison Township, near Bethel Church, Saturday at 5:20 p. m.

The Highlandtown volunteer fire department battled the blaze for about three hours. Aid was summoned from the West Point department, according to Chief Don Boyd.

Two large holes burned up through the roof of the old frame home, known locally as the Old McIntosh place.

Mr. and Mrs. Alford and their four children, ages 8 to 17, escaped unharmed. The interior was gutted.

Firemen said the blaze apparently started from a defective chimney.

Lt. Ray Plunkett of the West Point volunteer department estimated damage at $6,000 to the building and contents. The family had some insurance, he said.

The West Point department responded with three trucks and 15 men and the Highlandtown department sent two trucks and 10 men.

The Alfords are living with relatives in the area.

Rhodes Insists He Won't Be Candidate In 1968

NEW ORLEANS (AP)— Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes has taken himself out of the running as a Republican candidate for President or vice president in 1968.

"I will not be a candidate, that's right," he answered emphatically when the question was put to him at a news conference Sunday night.

Rhodes' name has been mentioned as a possible compromise candidate if neither Michigan Gov. George Romney nor former Vice President Richard Nixon make the grade at the 1968 GOP convention.

"We have no concern for any national office," Rhodes said when he was asked if he would consider running on a ticket headed by California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Rhodes said he would concentrate on solving problems in Ohio and that he considered his election as a contract with the people.

When asked if he would reconsider if either the nomination for President or vice president were offered him, he said, "I have no knowledge of any reconsideration."

The governor refused to comment on his preference for the GOP nomination for President.

"I have never placed myself in the position of a seer or analyst," he said when asked about the GOP's chances for victory in 1968.

"Many things can happen in the next 18, 19 or 20 months."

Rhodes said he would make a pitch for the Republican National Convention to be held in either Cleveland or Cincinnati.

He said he believed either city could meet the Republican National Committee's criteria for hotel and motel accommodations.

The governor was in New Orleans for a two-fold purpose: To attend the GOP National Committee meeting and to accept an award from the Society of Industrial Realtors naming Ohio's industrial development program as the best in the country.

A Chester man whose car hit a tree and a Lisbon area youth whose truck struck the rear of an auto were cited by the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon over the weekend.

Frank J. Swecker, 42, of 191 2nd St., Chester, was charged with speeding Saturday night after his 1959 auto veered off Park Way Ext. and struck a tree about a third of a mile north of the city limits.

Southern Local's Decision

Voters in Southern Local School District will be making a judgement on some vital aspects of public education in their district in Tuesday's special election.

The board of education has said, in effect, whether or not three elementary buildings will be closed and the whole system goes on a double session daily schedule, depends upon the outcome of the balloting on a proposed 4.5-mill levy.

This is apparently no "scare" approach by the board, since a citizens' committee has examined the district's financial records and come up with the same conclusion as the board — the schools have to have more revenue or operations will have to be curtailed.

Actually, the inconvenience of the double sessions and additional travel for pupils is not the basic decision at stake Tuesday.

The voters will be casting ballots on the future status of education for their children—this term, next term and next year.

Adequate money is vital for any education system — to buy books, to provide proper buildings, to keep and attract good teachers and administrators.

Southern Local voters should cast their ballot for the levy — for the future of their schools and for the future of their children.

For Proper Boating

The weather being what it is, there could not help but be thoughts of the coming season among boating enthusiasts.

Which brings to mind the free classes on navigation which will be sponsored by the Brilliant Power Squadron. Registration will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the VFW Hall on Carolina Ave., Chester.

Boating is an enjoyable and relaxing form of recreation; but it also can be extremely dangerous in the hands of the inexperienced.

If you are a boater and there is any doubt in your mind as to your ability to meet all qualifications and to properly handle your craft, by all means sign up at Chester and sit in on the 10 weekly lectures which will follow.

State Of The Arts

It's time for some patron of the arts to come out with a "State of the Arts" message. Some disconcerting things have been happening lately and reassurance is needed badly.

It is understandable that a painter wants to have his work rejected by a prominent family to increase its value.

The same is true of a controversial sculpture.

Likewise, conceivers of op art like to have their work meet with a certain amount of shock or disgust to help insure financial success.

This is acceptable on grounds of reasonable practicality.

But when the Field Museum of Natural History displays the art work of three chimpanzees that is rated as good as some human dabbings, that is going too far.

We have nothing against the art work of the chimps, it is the economical ramifications of the situation that is scary.

Pretty soon the chimps won't be satisfied with doing all that creative work for nothing. They will strike unless they get an extra helping of bananas.

This will just shoot the cost of their paintings that much higher.

No telling how high the price might skyrocket.

Somebody is going to have to pump some strength into an artist' union to freeze out the chimps. Boycott their work and picket their cages.

Our economy just can't afford a spectacular jump in art prices at this time. Artists must band together to thwart this subversive plot.

Don't laugh. This is serious.

How many people could afford to pay 300,000 bananas for a canvas by a one-eared chimp?

We Need Ombudsmen!

By Truman Twill

It said in the paper recently that the Ohio State University Council of Graduate Students wants an ombudsman . . . "to see that people don't get mistreated by the bureaucracy of this large university."

Everybody seems to be wanting ombudsmen lately.

Something must be going on.

Ombudsmen are people who go to bat for people who don't know how to walk up to the batter's box. They are professional fixers.

They are standard equipment in the Scandinavian social structure and apparently are headed in that direction here.

What accounts for the sudden popularity of an idea so new in the United States many people don't know the word? Has something gone wrong?

Of course it has.

Every community now needs a public defender, who is a legal ombudsman. The law has grown too complex to cope with.

Cities need someone who can be called when a caller has been given the run-around by underlings in offices of public officials.

U.S. representatives and senators, who are supposed to debate issues and pass laws, have been turned into full-time ombudsmen for constituents who get the run-around in the federal government.

State legislators play the same role in state government.

Run-of-mine citizens need someone with "clout" to get their rights from a massive bureaucracy whose members routinely retreat into negativism when asked for action.

Bureaucrats and all other underlings play it safe because they are more interested in their own welfare than in the welfare of troublesome outsiders trying to jar them out of their complacency.

What does an ombudsman do?

Simple.

He sidesteps all the underlings and goes to the source of authority.

He sees the head man and challenges that he is worthy to do what he is responsible for doing.

It's that easy.

The reason so many people are interested in ombudsmen is that it keeps getting harder to reach the head man.

One thing making it harder is computerization of what once were person-to-person arrangements.

No one can argue with a computer.

No one can get anywhere talking to a flunky.

But get to the genius who hired the flunky and signed the contract for the computer—and pow! Things happen.

More power to ombudsmen. Everybody needs one.

Whaling

A daring medical research team hopes to pump tranquilizers into a whale, catch it by the tail and tow the giant mammal to shallow water for study.

Quarry of the researchers is the dangerous gray whale, known as the "devilfish." In January and February, the grays will be sought in their breeding place — Mexico's lonely Scammon Lagoon, halfway down the Pacific Coast of Baja, Calif.

Dr. Merrill P. Spencer, director of the Virginia Mason Research Center at Seattle, Wash., is leading the expedition. The National Geographic Society is the sponsor.

Ten years ago, the society aided Dr. Paul Dudley White, heart consultant to former President Eisenhower, in an effort to obtain a cardiogram of the gray whale in the same lagoon. Dr. White will take part in the new study.

Dr. White's first expedition ended after an irate mother whale smashed the side of a harpoon boat. On a second trip, the party successfully harpooned a whale from a helicopter and obtained a cardiogram.

Dr. Spencer hopes to learn how whales and porpoises can survive long periods of deep submersion without breathing. The answer could be of major significance to man, since human beings and the sea-going mammals have a similar physiology.

'Hear, Hear!'

By Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON

The thing that impressed me most after watching Congressman Adam Clayton Powell on television was when he said, "Keep the faith and spread it gently." I'm sure he was trying to tell me something, but for the life of me I couldn't figure out what it was.

Art Buchwald

One of the problems of the House investigating Powell's affairs is that some congressmen are guilty of similar indiscretions and it's pretty hard for a representative to cast the first stone.

Let us suppose the Ad Hoc Committee to Unseat and Defrock Congressman Adam Clayton Powell is meeting in executive session.

"Gentlemen, it is our solemn obligation and duty to investigate all the facts and charges in the Adam Clayton Powell case and recommend to the Congress whether he should be censured, expelled or, if the punishment warrants, be brough back from Bimini and made to serve his full term in office."

"Hear, hear!" the other members of the committee shout.

"NOW LET US begin with the first charge. Powell not only put his wife, Yvette, on his payroll, but raised her salary to $20,578 a year although she lived in Puero Rico and never cashed her checks."

"Gee wait until my wife hears about this. I only pay her 16,900 a year, and I make her work in the Bronx."

"If my wife hears what Adam paid his wife, I'm going to be in real trouble, particularly since I've got her down as miscellaneous office expenses!"

"Then we better forget about that charge. Now let's get on to the next one. It is charged that Congressman Powell junketed to Europe in the company of two secretaries, ostensibly to study the Common Market, but really to visit the night clubs and live it up at the public's expense."

"Well what's wrong with that?

"I didn't say anything was wrong with it. I'm just reading the charges."

"Two secretaries? I was stuck on my junket with my mother, father, brother-in-law, sister and a waiter from the Plaza Hotel."

"When I went to Hong Kong to study the refugee problem I took my niece and nephew, my aunt and uncle and the golf pro from my country club."

"Adam always travels light."

"We'd better rule out that charge. Let's take up the business of Congressman Powell using his committee's air credit travel card to go back and forth between Miami and New York under the guise of Congressional business."

"He should be called on that."

"BY THE WAY, where are your receipts for your last six trips to Las Vegas?"

"What about the three trips you made to Honolulu?"

"How about the week spent in Acapulco?"

"Gentlemen, let's not fight. It is obvious Adam had a good reason for going to Miami which he felt was in the best interests of the country not to disclose."

"Hear, hear!" the committee shouts.

"All right, gentlemen, that seems to take care of the charges. Now what do we do?"

"Let's ask Adam how he did it and got away with it."

"That's a great idea. We'll all go to Bimini this weekend and hold the rest of our committee meetings there."

I'll call my secretary and ask her to pack her bathing suit."

"If I know Adam, he'll have bathing suits for all of us."

Will Washington Shed Burden?

By Raymond Moley

Those of us who over the years have consistently warned of the danger to the federal system by the concentration of excessive power in Washington have walked a lonely road. Suddenly, in 1967, we are joined by companions.

Walter Lippmann wrote in his comment on President Johnson's message to Congress:

"Secretary Gardner . . . has said that the most important thing we have learned during the first year of the Great Society programs is that they cannot be managed and administered successfully from Washington . . . The fact of the matter is that the country is too big to be managed and administered from Washington. . ."

Lippmann concludes that " a pause and a reconsideration" are needed.

Where have the reflectve faculties of Gardner and Lippmann been all these years? Why were they greeting the Great Society with loud hosannas in 1964?

Actually, the expression "Great Society" was the title of a book by Graham Wallas, a British socialist — a book dedicated to Walter Lippmann.

THERE IS also James Reston, who wrote on Jan. 15, 1967, that LBJ in his message was trying to say "a very important and even noble thing."

"This was," continued Reston, "that the spirit of domination in political affairs was dead. Nothing the federal government wanted to do at home could be achieved without the cooperation of the states, the cities and the county governments."

What is most remarkable is that both commentators were denouncing Barry Goldwater in 1964 — and the core of Goldwater's message on domestic affairs was the danger of centralized government in Washington

Some of us were saying the same thing long before Goldwater. And long, long before we were born, the makers of the Constitution of the United States created a structure designed to prevent centralization of power in Washington.

I left the service of Franklin Roosevelt and joined his opposition in 1936 largely because of his determination to invade the states with a horde of bureaucrats from the central government. In 1933, when the country was prostrated by a crisis of confidence, federal intervention was necessary.

The national credit was still sound, but many local governments were facing bankruptcy. Those governments, along with banks and railroads and agriculture, needed to be helped. Poor people needed help. Uncle Sam became the moneylender and almoner.

But the President, his bureaucracy and radical elements among the intellectuals insisted that the trend toward centralization should go on indefinitely. Mr. Roosevelt responded and at one point even proposed that the nation be reconstructed, with seven great TVAs based upon river valleys and united within themselves by government production and distribution of electric power.

UNDER SUCH A plan, the identity of states would be all but lost. Congress refused to go that far.

But in many other ways presidents and congresses have progressively enlarged federal power. The seemingly unlimited resources of federal credit and the income taxes have encouraged a centralization which culminated in the Great Society.

The well-worn arguments for this have been that the means of communication and transportation have made services national rather than statewide and local and that the country is rich enough to take in all or most all governmental services.

Both arguments have limits.

Most services can be performed with more economy and efficiency at the state and local level.

While Uncle Sam is rich, money is not the only means of solving problems. The administration of programs needs great talent, and such talent is not available in the federal establishment.

Only Talk?

That Could Be Congress Picture

WASHINGTON

Th Republicans were a pretty quiet bunch in 1965, the year after their election disaster when the Democrats outnumbered them 295 to 140 in the House and 67 to 33 in the Senate.

They were practically speechless and for want of ideas the Republican House leaders went around trying to pick outsiders' brains. They set up task forces to give them a talking point.

Gradually, they regained their speech but not their gusto until the 1966 elections in which they did better, particularly in the House where they picked up an additional 47 seats. They picked up three in the Senate.

They're still the minority party — the Democrats outnumber them 248 to 187 in the House, 64 to 36 in the Senate — but you might not think so to listen to them now.

FOR EXAMPLE, the Republican House and Senate leaders — Rep. Gerald R. Ford and Sen. Everett M. Dirksen — have just tried to match President Johnson's State of the Union message with one of their own.

It was a very ambitious message and you might get the impression from listening to it, at least Ford's part of it, that the Republicans were the majority party now and were running Congress.

They might very well be able to if they formed a coalition with the Southern Democrats — or could get the Southerners to form such a coalition — although Ford pooh-poohed the thought of it.

He said: "Cynics may call every Republican victory in this Congress a coalition. Let's meet that issue head - on, right now.

"By definition, coalition requires advance consultation and ultimate compromise of conviction to win a legislative victory."

At least that's what he said, although a coalition doesn't have to mean any such thing. And just about two weeks ago the Republicans and Southern Democrats formed their first coalition of the year, whether or not they consulted beforehand.

It was the Republicans and Southern Democrats who, by teaming up on the crucial vote, were able to prevent Rep. Adam Clayton Powell from taking his seat in the House.

Not one Republican voted in Powell's favor.

But, even with a coalition, Ford will have a tough time trying to translate into reality the various ideas he tossed off in his part of the Republican State of the Union message.

He stuck to domestic problems. Dirksen, who left that field to Ford and concentrated on foreign affairs, was as usual very hawkish on Vietnam. On that problem he backed up Johnson, which is more than some Democrats do.

FORD TRIED to give the impression that the Johnson administration and the Democratic leadership is tired and out of step with the times.

Since the early 1960s, he said, "the years have slipped by and now Americans in 1967 see the decade that dawned in hope fading into frustration and failure, bafflement and boredom."

Then he outlined at least 31 different steps that need to be taken, none of which the outnumbered Republicans could put over unless enough Democrats joined them.

Ford sounded energetic, but most of what he said looks like wishful thinking. Democrats want to get elected in 1968 and they can't afford to spend the next two years helping the Republicans put over their program.

But at the same time, if the Republican-Southern Democratic coalition in the Powell case is a taste of things to come, Johnson's programs are in for a wretched time, too.

This year in Congress looks like more talk than action.

Southern Local's Decision

Voters in Southern Local School District will be making a judgement on some vital aspects of public education in their district in Tuesday's special election.

The board of education has said, in effect, whether or not three elementary buildings will be closed and the whole system goes on a double session daily schedule, depends upon the outcome of the balloting on a proposed 4.5-mill levy.

This is apparently no "scare" approach by the board, since a citizens' committee has examined the district's financial records and come up with the same conclusion as the board — the schools have to have more revenue or operations will have to be curtailed.

Actually, the inconvenience of the double sessions and additional travel for pupils is not the basic decision at stake Tuesday.

The voters will be casting ballots on the future status of education for their children—this term, next term and next year.

Adequate money is vital for any education system — to buy books, to provide proper buildings, to keep and attract good teachers and administrators.

Southern Local voters should cast their ballot for the levy — for the future of their schools and for the future of their children.

For Proper Boating

The weather being what it is, there could not help but be thoughts of the coming season among boating enthusiasts.

Which brings to mind the free classes on navigation which will be sponsored by the Brilliant Power Squadron. Registration will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the VFW Hall on Carolina Ave., Chester.

Boating is an enjoyable and relaxing form of recreation; but it also can be extremely dangerous in the hands of the inexperienced.

If you are a boater and there is any doubt in your mind as to your ability to meet all qualifications and to properly handle your craft, by all means sign up at Chester and sit in on the 10 weekly lectures which will follow.

State Of The Arts

It's time for some patron of the arts to come out with a "State of the Arts" message. Some disconcerting things have been happening lately and reassurance is needed badly.

It is understandable that a painter wants to have his work rejected by a prominent family to increase its value.

The same is true of a controversial sculpture.

Likewise, conceivers of op art like to have their work meet with a certain amount of shock or disgust to help insure financial success.

This is acceptable on grounds of reasonable practicality.

But when the Field Museum of Natural History displays the art work of three chimpanzees that is rated as good as some human dabbings, that is going too far.

We have nothing against the art work of the chimps, it is the economical ramifications of the situation that is scary.

Pretty soon the chimps won't be satisfied with doing all that creative work for nothing. They will strike unless they get an extra helping of bananas.

This will just shoot the cost of their paintings that much higher.

No telling how high the price might skyrocket.

Somebody is going to have to pump some strength into an artist' union to freeze out the chimps. Boycott their work and picket their cages.

Our economy just can't afford a spectacular jump in art prices at this time. Artists must band together to thwart this subversive plot.

Don't laugh. This is serious.

How many people could afford to pay 300,000 bananas for a canvas by a one-eared chimp?

We Need Ombudsmen!

By Truman Twill

It said in the paper recently that the Ohio State University Council of Graduate Students wants an ombudsman . . . "to see that people don't get mistreated by the bureaucracy of this large university."

Everybody seems to be wanting ombudsmen lately.

Something must be going on.

Ombudsmen are people who go to bat for people who don't know how to walk up to the batter's box. They are professional fixers.

They are standard equipment in the Scandinavian social structure and apparently are headed in that direction here.

What accounts for the sudden popularity of an idea so new in the United States many people don't know the word? Has something gone wrong?

Of course it has.

Every community now needs a public defender, who is a legal ombudsman. The law has grown too complex to cope with.

Cities need someone who can be called when a caller has been given the run-around by underlings in offices of public officials.

U.S. representatives and senators, who are supposed to debate issues and pass laws, have been turned into full-time ombudsmen for constituents who get the run-around in the federal government.

State legislators play the same role in state government.

Run-of-mine citizens need someone with "clout" to get their rights from a massive bureaucracy whose members routinely retreat into negativism when asked for action.

Skipper Of Luxury Liner Cites Errant Harbor Buoy

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—The skipper of a luxury liner which spent 49 hours stuck on a mudbar 800 yards off shore says an errant harbor marker was responsible for his ship's plight. But the U.S. Coast Guard disagrees.

"The reason we went aground was that one of the buoys was 100 yards further south than it should have been," Capt. Charles F. Troxel told newsmen Sunday night after his 563-foot vessel had reached port.

But a spokesman at the Miami Coast Guard station said "all navigational aids were operational at the time of the ground." He said an investigation was continuing.

The S.S. Atlantic, a sleek, white ocean cruiser, steamed off for Jamaica early today, hours after returning from its embarrassing voyage. The trip—scheduled as a seven-day tour of the Caribbean—lasted 49 hours, all of which were spent on a sandbar just south of the Fort Lauderdale harbor channel.

But the voyage ended Sunday night with sirens screaming, lights blazing, a band playing "When the Saints Go Marching In" and the ship's 313 passengers voicing their joy and waving streamers at friends waiting at the dock.

"It was a wonderful time of cocktails and parties. We were on our own private island," said Ben Rose Israel of Miami Beach.

Capt. Troxel said the 18,000-ton ship was not damaged. He said the safety of the craft had been verified by divers and the American Bureau of Shipping.

Everybody agreed that there was no panic and that no one was hurt. The captain said the vessel was leaving the harbor at about eight knots when the craft went aground. It took several tugs three tries at high tide before the Atlantic came free.

Troxel, 51, has spent more than 30 years at sea and says he has sailed from the harbor more than "200 times." A spokesman for American Export Isbrandtsen Lines, Inc., which operates the 13-year-old ship, said Troxel ranked third in seniority among 53 skippers.

Gerald Zornow, assistant public relations director for the firm, said more than two-thirds of the passengers—who paid from $215 to $475 for accomodations—had elected to continue on an abbreviated trip to Kingston. He said about half of the others said they planned to take later trips.

Army Experts Making Study Of Armor Used In Viet War

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP)—A team of Army experts from the United States is fanning out across Vietnam for a field study that may bring revolutionary changes in doctrine for use of armor in Vietnam-type wars.

About 75 officers are observing the employment of armored personnel carriers and tanks in country that many U.S. military men at one time considered unsuited for armor. Innovations tried out by American field commanders over the past year have been so successful that thinking has begun to change.

The experts will spend until March observing armor in action. Then they will report their findings to the Army's Combat Developments Command at Fort Belvoir, Va.

This could result in changes, including an increase in the number of armored personnel carriers and tanks for units tailored for operations in rugged, road-short terrain like that of Southeast Asia and other underdeveloped regions.

Certain U.S. Army division commanders in Vietnam have asked for more tanks, which the armor specialists said had proved effective not only in cleared areas but off the roads as well.

Armor officers said tanks have scored well against scattered Communist troops with a 90mm canister, a kind of grape shot with a spray effect. These officers claim that as much as 75 per cent of Vietnam's terrain is suitable for either armored personnel carriers or tanks.

The Army team from the United States is paying particular attention to the experience of a Vietnamese army regiment, the 2nd Armored Cavalry, which has experimented with new ways of maneuvering with personnel carriers or tanks.

Rhodes Receives Report Urging 3 New Buildings

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes has received a report proposing three new state office buildings be constructed in downtown Columbus at a cost of $45 million.

The report, issued Saturday by Becker and Becker Associates, New York, said "Ohio is one of the fastest growing states in the nation" and the new buildings are needed to meet requirements of the state for the next nine years.

The governor said the buildings could be financed under a building authority proposal he's expected to present to the legislature this week.

The report recommended a new Statehouse annex building on the site of the present 67-year-old Statehouse annex which houses the Ohio Supreme Court and other offices.

The report also suggested a new commerce and industry building to house state departments dealing with promotion and regulation of commerce and industry, and a new building for health, education and welfare departments.

East Liverpool On 'Order List' For Shoplifters

East Liverpool was among 13 cities on a "shoplifting list" found during the arrest of two Pennsylvania women in Cleveland.

In a preliminary hearing Saturday in Municipal Court at Cleveland, Joyce C. Frickanish, 19, of Wampum, Pa., and Carol G. Daniels, 26, of Pittsburgh were bound over to the Cuyahoga County Grand Jury after they pleaded innocent to grand larceny charges.

They were arrested Friday by detectives and a store detective as they left a department store carrying a quantity of goods concealed in their clothing.

The detectives found an order list in the women's car showing specific items to be shoplifted from stores in Boston Heights, south of Cleveland, Massillon, Canton, Wooster, Alliance, New Philadelphia, Columbus, Newark, Zanesville, Cambridge and Wheeling in addition to East Liverpool.

Skilled workers account for the largest share of outboard motor purchases, according to a boating club.

cible Steel Co. medical department.

Firemen were forced to wear masks because of the dense smoke and the intense heat and smoke kept the crowds of onlookers at a distance.

Chief D'Itri said many curious residents telephoned the fire department about the blaze, tying up phone lines and handicapping communications. He urged townspeople to refrain from telephoning the police and fire departments during such emergencies.

D'ITRI SAID four hydrants in the area were used and firemen strung 1,000 feet of 2½-inch hose and 550 feet of 1½-inch hose.

He said Ohioville firemen were alerted to the blaze by radio messages and arrived on the scene at 3 a. m. He expressed appreciation to the Ohioville and Industry firemen, the auxiliary police and Beaver County Salvation Army.

He also thanked residents of Springlane for providing coffee to firemen during the blaze and later Sunday while a skeleton fire crew remained at the site.

Deramo and his wife, Flora, of 989 Ohio Ave. said they were shocked on hearing about the blaze.

He said he had been to the funeral of an uncle at Whitehall Saturday and had worked only until 11:45 p.m., being tired. The restaurant closed at 1:45 a.m. Sunday, he said.

Deramo and his wife, who have operated the restaurant at the site since 1936, had lived in the upstairs apartment until they moved to their present home in 1942.

Deramo said he heard the fire whistle, not realizing where the blaze was until he received a telephone call from Ranelli's Market, across the street from the restaurant.

The Deramos went to the scene, where they stayed until 6:30 a. m. He said the building and equipment are partially covered by insurance.

Deramo was owner of the original Riviera Club building at Midland Ave. and 12th St. which was hit by a $20,000 blaze May 5, 1959. That fire was believed to have been ignited by a faulty neon sign.

The building was remodeled and is now the New Riviera.

Officers Are Selected By Trustees Of Camp

Robert Hummer of Girard was elected chairman of the board during the annual organizational meeting of the trustees of Beaver Creek United Presbyterian Church Camp Saturday at the Foster Memorial United Presbyterian Church in Youngstown.

Others elected include Charles Findling of Youngstown and Marshall Dutterer of East Liverpool, co-chairmen of the operations committee; the Rev. Frank MacAllister of Sebring, chairman of the administration committee; the Rev. Richard Shipley and the Rev. James Hobson, both of East Liverpool, co-chairmen of the program committee, and William Crawford of Toronto, chairman of the development committee.

The Rev. Gene Toot of East Liverpool, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the slate of officers.

Rev. Shipley announced the tentative camping schedule, with periods for senior highs and junior high students and juniors. A new venture this year will be a Canadian canoe trip for senior high students.

The operations committee report was given by Rev. Toot and the board voted to purchase 25 new chairs for the Rose Lodge and new dishwasher for the kitchen. Plans were made for a 14-foot addition to the Rose Lodge to house a furnace and provide storage space. Plans were discussed for a new road into the camp.

Rev. MacAllister reported on the administration conference which he attended in December at the Geneva Center in Rochester, Ind. The secretary's report was given by Mrs. Phyllis Conley, who also submitted the treasurer's report in the absence of Marion Horger, treasurer.

A donation of an electric organ was accepted from the Pleasant Hills United Presbyterian Church of Steubenville.

New trustees introduced included the Rev. James Wheeler of North Jackson, Ohio, the Rev. Hobson and Albert Pittenger, both of East Liverpool. The Rev. Roland Kamm, Ohio Synod Christian Education field director, was a guest. Rev. McAllister gave opening prayer.

Findling, of the host church, served coffee and cookies.

The next meeting will be March 18 at 10:30 a. m. at the Rose Lodge. A noon lunch will be served.

Butler County Counts 5

22 More Killed In Ohio Traffic

By The Associated Press

At least 22 persons lost their lives in Ohio traffic accidents between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday—the worst weekend death toll of 1967.

The deaths equaled the number killed over the 78-hour New Year's weekend, but that included the last few hours of 1966.

It was a tragic weekend for Butler County where five persons were killed, two in one crash. The southwestern Ohio county had gone the first 19 days of the year without a traffic fatality.

Only one other crash claimed more than one life. That was near Defiance where a married couple was killed.

The deaths:

From Noon Saturday

Thomas Johnson, 31, Cleveland, when his car flipped over a guardrail on a Cleveland freeway and onto the top of a car on a street below.

Bert A. Miller, 78, Rt. 4 Warren, in a two-car crash on Rt. 88 near Warren.

Gerald C. Gaylert, 33, Philadelphia, Pa., in a two-car crash just west of Toledo.

The judge ordered a 30 - day suspension in the permit of James L. Merriman, 26, of 1108 Commerce St., Wellsville, and also fined him $25 and costs. Merriman was cited by the patrol last Tuesday at 10:50 p. m. on a charge of speeding 90 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone.

Patrolman J. T. Garrison reported his cruiser hit speeds up to 115 miles an hour while he was overtaking the motorist. Merriman reported he was driving fast because he was "late for work," the officer reported.

DAVID WAGGLE, 21, of 503 Elm St. was given a 15-day license suspension and fined $25 and costs on a charge of speeding 80 miles an hour in a 60-mile zone. He was cited Saturday at 10 a. m., the patrol reported.

Catherine A. Kuhar, 38, of Hammondsville R.D. 1 was given a 10-day suspension of her driver's license and fined $15 and costs on a charge of speeding 75 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone. She was cited Thursday at 6:30 a. m., the patrol said.

Twelve others faced the judge this morning in traffic cases — 11 cited by the patrol and one arrested by local police. Most of the defendants were charged with speeding.

Roy Douglas Cooper, 19, of Summit Dr., R.D. 2, was fined $15 and costs on a charge of speeding 65 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone, also on the East Liverpool - Wellsville Rd. He pleaded "no contest." Cooper was cited this morning at 1:50, the patrol said.

A fine of $20 and costs was imposed on Lester B. Thompson, 28, of Glenmoor, cited by the patrol Friday at 9:15 p. m. on a charge of speeding 70 miles an hour in a 60-mile zone on the Freeway. He pleaded guilty.

David T. McFeely, 18, of 602 Clark St., Toronto, cited Saturday at 12:25 a. m. on a charge of speeding 60 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone on Route 7, drew a fine of $15 and costs.

Nicholas J. Johnston of 326 Blakeley St. also was fined $15 and costs. He was charged with speeding 70 miles an hour in a 60-mile zone on Route 30. He was cited Thursday at 10:45 p. m.

Thomas C. Bender, 21, of Moore St. drew a fine of $20 and costs on a charge of speeding 70 miles an hour in a 50 mile zone on Route 7. He was cited Jan. 16 at 8:45 p. m.

Walter E. Morrison, 24, of 1959 Ohio Ave. was fined $15 and costs on a charge of speeding 60 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone on W. 8th St. He was cited Saturday at 2:25 a. m. by Patrolman Paul C. Blevins.

WALTER V. MORRIS, 24, of Canton forfeited a $22.50 bond on a charge of speeding 65 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone on Route 30. He was cited Sunday at 4:30 p. m. by the patrol.

Frank J. Swecker, 42, of 191 2nd St., Chester, was fined $15 and costs when he pleaded guilty to a charge of driving left of center. He was cited by the patrol Saturday at 9:15 p. m. after his car went off County Rd. 435 and struck a tree.

Patsy R. Scarabino, 54, of 304 3rd St., Wellsville, drew a fine of $10 and costs when he pleaded guilty to a charge of crashing a traffic light Saturday at 11:55 p. m. at the junction of State Routes 7 and 45 in Wellsville. He was cited by the patrol.

Francis M. Smith, 47, of Toronto was ordered to pay the costs after pleading guilty to a charge of operating an unsafe vehicle. Cited by the patrol Friday at 9:35 p. m. on Route 7, he told the judge he sold the car for junk Saturday.

Richard Lee Adkins, 21, of 134 W. 3rd St. was fined $10 and costs when he pleaded guilty to a charge of operating an auto left of center. He was cited by the patrol Sunday at 12:10 a. m. on Route 7.

The judge continued the case until next Monday for payment of the fine and advised Leake to dispose of the car in the meantime.

Hearings set today for two other drivers were continued indefinitely because their attorneys were in Common Pleas Court for arraignment of defendants indicted by the Grand Jury.

The traffic case defendants are Ben Feldman, 54, of 3285 St. Clair Ave., cited on a charge of driving 70 miles an hour in a 45-mile zone on Route 30 on Jan. 4, and Harry Thomas, 33, of Struthers, arrested by city police Jan. 17 on a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol.

Follansbee Hit By Blazes

FOLLANSBEE — Area firemen Saturday battled a major fire at the former warehouse of the Scott Lumber Co. here and another at the Louis D. Serafine residence on Rockdale Rd.

At 3:45 p.m., the first alarm was sounded and fire trucks from Follansbee, Hooverson Heights and Wellsburg rushed to the warehouse, now owned by the Follansbee Division of the Wheeling Steel Co.

They fought the blaze for two hours and managed to keep it from spreading to the adjacent new office building and several railroad tank cars, but the warehouse was destroyed. It was empty and damage was not extensive, however.

At 10:45 p. m., the Follansbee department joined Hooverson Heights firemen to combat flames at the Serafine home, which received damage estimated at $10,000. The family was away when the fire broke out.

Following the warehouse fire, the Hooverson and Follansbee departments were summoned to a grass fire near Lee Rd. They contained the blaze before property damage resulted.

There were no injuries reported in any of the operations.

Butler County Counts 5

22 More Killed In Ohio Traffic

By The Associated Press

At least 22 persons lost their lives in Ohio traffic accidents between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday—the worst weekend death toll of 1967.

The deaths equaled the number killed over the 78-hour New Year's weekend, but that included the last few hours of 1966.

It was a tragic weekend for Butler County where five persons were killed, two in one crash. The southwestern Ohio county had gone the first 19 days of the year without a traffic fatality.

Only one other crash claimed more than one life. That was near Defiance where a married couple was killed.

The deaths:

From Noon Saturday

Thomas Johnson, 31, Cleveland, when his car flipped over a guardrail on a Cleveland freeway and onto the top of a car on a street below.

Bert A. Miller, 78, Rt. 4 Warren, in a two-car crash on Rt. 88 near Warren.

Gerald C. Gaylert, 33, Philadelphia, Pa., in a two-car crash just west of Toledo.

Ivan H. Dinan, 37, Clyde, Ohio, hit by a car in Fremont.

Beverly Lineberger, 28, Toledo, when her car collided with a mail train in Toledo.

Mrs. Mary Vodhanel, 75, Campbell, Ohio, struck by a hit-skip motorist in Campbell.

Sunday

John Harris Sr., 41, Cleveland, who died of injuries suffered Saturday when his car hit a utility pole in Brecksville.

Burton Sharp, 42, and his wife, Bernice, 45, Defiance, in a two-car collision on Ohio 15 near Defiance.

Raymond Helms, 18, of near Fairborn, when his car left a Montgomery County road and struck a tree.

Douglas Harrison, 16, Cleveland, in a one-car crash in Cleveland.

Ronald E. Cline, 18, Shiloh, in a three-car accident on Ohio 61 near Shelby in Richland County.

Miss Julia Mikes, 79, Cleveland, struck on a Cleveland street by a motorist who fled the scene.

No Time For Ulcers In TV

Whenever the star or costar of a TV series becomes ill (which isn't often), the concern in Hollywood circles usually is for the "poor producer" and what he can do to keep the series going. The ailing star gets lots of solicitous mail from his fans during his hospitalization but hardly ever hears from the "poor producer."

Hal Humphrey

"That's why this illness of mine has been quite a revelation to me," says Sebastian Cabot, who was playing French, the man servant in CBS-TV's "Family Affair" series until he was hospitalized last November with a bleeding ulcer.

-:-

"NOT ONLY did Don Fedderson, our executive producer, come to visit me, but I got calls from the network. It was very comforting because, naturally, in a situation like that you can't help wondering if your job is gone," Cabot says.

Viewers of "Family Affair" will miss the rotund Cabot for the first time in tonight's episode when his English countryman, John Williams, takes over as French's brother.

In the story line French leaves a note for employer Bill Davis (Brian Keith) explaining he has been called back to England to join his queen's entourage for a special trip.

-:-

AT THE TIME this episode was shot Cabot still was undergoing painful diagnostic treatments, and discovery of a tumor behind his stomach ulcer might call for surgery, which would mean he definitely would not be able to resume his role this season.

"After four weeks in the hospital and tests I'd rather not even try to recall, the doctors decided the tumor was not malignant," Cabot says, "but they still wouldn't tell me when I could go back to work."

Last week he finally got the word and was scheduled to return to the set today. He will have missed nine episodes but will be in the final six shows of the season.

Cabot was relieved further to learn that his substitute, John Williams, did not want to do more than the nine episodes. A more gung ho actor easily might have insisted upon finishing out the season as part of the deal.

"LUCKILY, everyone gets along fine on our set. There have been no fights of any kind. Oh, maybe I've had a 'discussion' or two with a director, but every actor does that," says Cabot. "That's more than I can say about the 'Checkmate' series I was in a few years ago."

To look at Cabot now no one would guess he'd been desperately ill. He insists he lost 25 pounds and now is down to a fighting weight of 252. If his health remains good he is assured of at least another season on "Family Affair," which has turned out to be one of the few new series to rate among the top 25 network shows.

He couldn't afford to be out of work much longer. Besides a family, Cabot supports a 1937 Jaguar, a Bentley and a Citroen of indeterminate vintage and a relatively new Pontiac station wagon.

-:-

MEANWHILE, as some character once said, "the show must go on," and this never applied to any phase of show business more than it does to TV.

Illness is a thing always feared by the "poor producers," but they've become extremely ingenious in discovering ways to keep their investments from being impaired by a sick star.

"Peyton Place" survived with Lola Albright substituting for Dorothy Malone. Loretta Young kept her drama series going for many months with "guest hosts" while she was in the hospital. "Route 66" survived George Maharis' bout with hepatitis.

Ray Burr (Perry Mason), Dwayne Hickman (Dobie Gillis) and Red Skelton were all on sick lists at various times but got back in time to save themselves being "written out" for keeps. With Skelton it was a case of repeating shows.

Generally, however, Hollywood's stars are a pretty rugged lot. They have to be if they want to pass the "poor producer's" insurance company tests.

Police Probe Weekend City Entry Series

East Liverpool police today are investigating a series of weekend burglaries, including a case at the State Theater in which intruders fled with $73 in cash and some candy and popcorn.

The theater on lower St. Clair Ave. was entered sometime between 11 p. m. Saturday and 9:30 a. m. Sunday by an intruder who used a door leading off a fire escape, officers said.

The loss included $20 taken from a drawer behind a candy counter; $45 in silver from an ice cream vending machine; $8 stolen from a candy machine, $7 worth of assorted candy bars and 15 bags of popcorn, officers reported.

The entry was discovered at 9:30 a. m. yesterday by Mrs. Alice Hutchison of 315 Peterson Rd. when she arrived to clean the theater, officers said.

Meanwhile, Herman Hoppel of R. D. 3 told police Saturday afternoon a thief forced open the doors of his parked truck on lower St. Clair Ave. Friday night or Saturday morning and stole three guns — a new Remington 12-gauge semi-automatic shotgun, a 20-gauge shotgun and a Marlin .30-.30-caliber lever action rifle.

Officers also are investigating burglaries at two other business places in which intruders apparently obtained nothing.

While on routine cruiser patrol at 1:30 this morning, Lt. Paul A. Burson Jr. and Patrolman L. E. Richard discovered a burglar had forced open a door on the west side of the D. & J. Service Station at 2047 Lisbon St., operated by Donald R. Lawson, also of Lisbon St. The owner made a check, but could find nothing missing, police said.

Burglars also forced their way into the building of YELP Service, Inc., on the River Rd. sometime between 10:15 p. m. Saturday and 9:45 a.m. Sunday, police said.

The intruders tore the screen off a window on the north side of the building and then broke two 30-x-34-inch panes of glass, officers said. Going upstairs, the burglars broke a 57-x-23-inch pane of glass out of the door leading to the company's offices.

Officers said it was not known immediately if anything was taken. The burglary was discovered by William Savage of 1002 Avondale St. when he entered the building Sunday morning.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

No Time For Ulcers In TV

Whenever the star or costar of a TV series becomes ill (which isn't often), the concern in Hollywood circles usually is for the "poor producer" and what he can do to keep the series going. The ailing star gets lots of solicitous mail from his fans during his hospitalization but hardly ever hears from the "poor producer."

Hal Humphrey

"That's why this illness of mine has been quite a revelation to me," says Sebastian Cabot, who was playing French, the man servant in CBS-TV's "Family Affair" series until he was hospitalized last November with a bleeding ulcer.

-:-

"NOT ONLY did Don Fedderson, our executive producer, come to visit me, but I got calls from the network. It was very comforting because, naturally, in a situation like that you can't help wondering if your job is gone," Cabot says.

Viewers of "Family Affair" will miss the rotund Cabot for the first time in tonight's episode when his English countryman, John Williams, takes over as French's brother.

In the story line French leaves a note for employer Bill Davis (Brian Keith) explaining he has been called back to England to join his queen's entourage for a special trip.

-:-

AT THE TIME this episode was shot Cabot still was undergoing painful diagnostic treatments, and discovery of a tumor behind his stomach ulcer might call for surgery, which would mean he definitely would not be able to resume his role this season.

"After four weeks in the hospital and tests I'd rather not even try to recall, the doctors decided the tumor was not malignant," Cabot says, "but they still wouldn't tell me when I could go back to work."

Last week he finally got the word and was scheduled to return to the set today. He will have missed nine episodes but will be in the final six shows of the season.

Cabot was relieved further to learn that his substitute, John Williams, did not want to do more than the nine episodes. A more gung ho actor easily might have insisted upon finishing out the season as part of the deal.

"LUCKILY, everyone gets along fine on our set. There have been no fights of any kind. Oh, maybe I've had a 'discussion' or two with a director, but every actor does that," says Cabot. "That's more than I can say about the 'Checkmate' series I was in a few years ago."

To look at Cabot now no one would guess he'd been desperately ill. He insists he lost 25 pounds and now is down to a fighting weight of 252. If his health remains good he is assured of at least another season on "Family Affair," which has turned out to be one of the few new series to rate among the top 25 network shows.

He couldn't afford to be out of work much longer. Besides a family, Cabot supports a 1937 Jaguar, a Bentley and a Citroen of indeterminate vintage and a relatively new Pontiac station wagon.

-:-

MEANWHILE, as some character once said, "the show must go on," and this never applied to any phase of show business more than it does to TV.

Illness is a thing always feared by the "poor producers," but they've become extremely ingenious in discovering ways to keep their investments from being impaired by a sick star.

"Peyton Place" survived with Lola Albright substituting for Dorothy Malone. Loretta Young kept her drama series going for many months with "guest hosts" while she was in the hospital. "Route 66" survived George Maharis' bout with hepatitis.

Ray Burr (Perry Mason), Dwayne Hickman (Dobie Gillis) and Red Skelton were all on sick lists at various times but got back in time to save themselves being "written out" for keeps. With Skelton it was a case of repeating shows.

Generally, however, Hollywood's stars are a pretty rugged lot. They have to be if they want to pass the "poor producer's" insurance company tests.

Police Probe Weekend City Entry Series

East Liverpool police today are investigating a series of weekend burglaries, including a case at the State Theater in which intruders fled with $73 in cash and some candy and popcorn.

The theater on lower St. Clair Ave. was entered sometime between 11 p. m. Saturday and 9:30 a. m. Sunday by an intruder who used a door leading off a fire escape, officers said.

The loss included $20 taken from a drawer behind a candy counter; $45 in silver from an ice cream vending machine; $8 stolen from a candy machine, $7 worth of assorted candy bars and 15 bags of popcorn, officers reported.

The entry was discovered at 9:30 a. m. yesterday by Mrs. Alice Hutchison of 315 Peterson Rd. when she arrived to clean the theater, officers said.

Meanwhile, Herman Hoppel of R. D. 3 told police Saturday afternoon a thief forced open the doors of his parked truck on lower St. Clair Ave. Friday night or Saturday morning and stole three guns — a new Remington 12-gauge semi-automatic shotgun, a 20-gauge shotgun and a Marlin .30-.30-caliber lever action rifle.

Officers also are investigating burglaries at two other business places in which intruders apparently obtained nothing.

While on routine cruiser patrol at 1:30 this morning, Lt. Paul A. Burson Jr. and Patrolman L. E. Richard discovered a burglar had forced open a door on the west side of the D. & J. Service Station at 2047 Lisbon St., operated by Donald R. Lawson, also of Lisbon St. The owner made a check, but could find nothing missing, police said.

Burglars also forced their way into the building of YELP Service, Inc., on the River Rd. sometime between 10:15 p. m. Saturday and 9:45 a.m. Sunday, police said.

The intruders tore the screen off a window on the north side of the building and then broke two 30-x-34-inch panes of glass, officers said. Going upstairs, the burglars broke a 57-x-23-inch pane of glass out of the door leading to the company's offices.

Officers said it was not known immediately if anything was taken. The burglary was discovered by William Savage of 1002 Avondale St. when he entered the building Sunday morning.

Gem-Wise
Jewelry fashions, facts, fictions

THE AMETHYST TODAY

In viewing antique jewelry which is so popular now, you see the lovely gemstone, Amethyst, used frequently in yellow gold settings combine with small pearls and diamonds. On the other hand, you see Amethyst used in larger forms in contemporary silver jewelry which sells for most reasonable prices. This is certainly a reflection on the history of amethyst which before the turn of the century was a most expensive gem, as contrasted with the market today.

Large finds of amethyst quartz occurred early in the 20th Century in Brazil, and this made the previous value of amethyst drop in price so that now this beautiful gem is within reach of every woman. Prior to that time, amethyst was seen in fabulous jewel collections such as those owned by Catherine the Great of Russia, Empress Charlotte of France and Mexico, and the Vatican. In fact, amethyst has long been called "the ecclesiastical gem" because of its long time use in the special rings of Bishops.

For women who appreciates beauty on a small budget, I think genuine amethyst jewelry is a very good buy. It combines beautifully with a wide variety of other gemstones, from turquoise to ruby, diamonds and pearls. The coloring, too, in a fine amethyst, complements so many of todays fashions, especially the greens and golden tones. And for those born in the month of February, don't forget that this is the Birthstone for the month, and said to be very lucky for those born then who wear it.

Pilot, 4 Residents Killed As Planes Collide In Air

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — "Oh, My God! I hope I got it past the building!"

These were Marine Capt. James Powell's last words, minutes after his Skyhawk jet attack plane collided with another in a rainstorm Sunday.

Both disabled planes crashed into a Southern California retirement community, setting two dwellings on fire. Powell and four residents died.

Four other persons were injured, three residents of the Leisure World community and the pilot of the second A4b skyhawk.

Many residents of the community 14 miles southeast of Santa Ana and 45 miles southeast of Los Angeles were away at church services when the planes crashed.

"No one had a chance," said Dr. Adrian Irvine, a retired physician. "I looked out a window and saw a mass of flames engulf the building."

Laura Stevens, like Irvine a Leisure World resident, was reading a newspaper when she heard what sounded like thunder.

She saw a neighboring unit enveloped in flames and "people running out of the building carrying bundles of clothing."

As plane wreckage ripped through two of the two-story buildings, other persons were trapped temporarily by flames and debris.

A fuel tank fell from one of the planes as it smashed through the first building.

Investigators several hours after the crash theorized that the radio in one of the planes may have gone dead as the pilot was being guided toward a landing at El Toro Marine Air Station.

Levy

close at 6 p. m. A 55 per cent affirmative vote is required for passage of the levy, which would bring in about $49,000 annually for four years.

Due to lack of sufficient revenue, the board of education two months ago ordered closing of three elementary schools and scheduling of double sessions daily for the 1,400 students. However, the action on the closings and new schedule has been reset for Feb. 6 to await the outcome of the election.

The board has referred to a $20,000 debt at the end of 1966, and said money will probably have to be borrowed by the end of the current month.

Should the levy be defeated, the Wayne, No. 16 and Franklin Schools would be closed and double sessions held at Salineville, Highlandtown and the high school.

Elementary pupils would attend from 8 a. m. to 1 p. m. and high school students from 1 to 7 p. m.

The cost of tomorrow's election is being paid by the committee.

Gem-Wise
Jewelry fashions, facts, fictions

THE AMETHYST TODAY

In viewing antique jewelry which is so popular now, you see the lovely gemstone, Amethyst, used frequently in yellow gold settings combine with small pearls and diamonds. On the other hand, you see Amethyst used in larger forms in contemporary silver jewelry which sells for most reasonable prices. This is certainly a reflection on the history of amethyst which before the turn of the century was a most expensive gem, as contrasted with the market today.

Large finds of amethyst quartz occurred early in the 20th Century in Brazil, and this made the previous value of amethyst drop in price so that now this beautiful gem is within reach of every woman. Prior to that time, amethyst was seen in fabulous jewel collections such as those owned by Catherine the Great of Russia, Empress Charlotte of France and Mexico, and the Vatican. In fact, amethyst has long been called "the ecclesiastical gem" because of its long time use in the special rings of Bishops.

For women who appreciates beauty on a small budget, I think genuine amethyst jewelry is a very good buy. It combines beautifully with a wide variety of other gemstones, from turquoise to ruby, diamonds and pearls. The coloring, too, in a fine amethyst, complements so many of todays fashions, especially the greens and golden tones. And for those born in the month of February, don't forget that this is the Birthstone for the month, and said to be very lucky for those born then who wear it.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I need to thank someone and I don't know how to reach her. Can you help me?

I'm a grandmother-in-waiting. Someone, somewhere is carrying our unborn grandchild. Maybe she is frightened or depressed or lonely. Please let her know that our prayers have surrounded her for a long time now and tell her not to worry about the reception we will give her baby.

The room is nearly ready and the papa and mama are holding their breath in anticipation of the Big Day. Uncles and aunts by the dozen, not to mention both sets of grandparents, are so excited they can barely stand it.

Tell this young girl, Ann, to open her heart and accept the love we feel for her. The baby she is giving us through adoption will be her life-long contribution to our happiness. We will be forever in her debt.

MRS. J.L.P.

Dear Mrs. J.L.P.: In behalf of the young girl you are trying to reach I want to thank you for a beautiful sentiment. The warmth of your letter will touch millions of hearts today. You are a great lady.

Waitress Speaks

Dear Ann: I read the letter from the girl who complained that waitresses treat teen-age customers like dirt.

She described how she and her two friends left a 3-cent tip to show what they thought of the poor service.

Like every story, there are two sides — and I'd like to speak for the waitresses.

Some sandwich shops and restaurants go out after teen business. Usually they are near high schools. Our restaurant is not. We don't see many teens and I would be glad if we never saw any.

Why? Because they never leave a tip. They feel that just because they are kids it's not expected. If they would leave one nickel each it would show some appreciation for the service.

The messes these kids make are inexcusable. They set fire to the paper napkins, tear up match folders and straws, spill catsup and mustard on the walls and floor. Cigarette butts are left floating in coffee cups. Chewing gum is stuck to the bottom of saucers. They wouldn't do these things at home. Why do they do them in public?

Kids who are old enough to think they are in love are old enough to behave decently when they eat out. If you are fair you will print my letter and let us waitresses get our side before the public. — GOSPEL TRUTH.

Dear Gospel: Here is your letter and I'm sorry to say I received over 100 letters from sister waitresses who said just about the same thing.

I have seen some well-behaved teens in restaurants, so I know they all don't behave like pigs. But thanks for writing — and I hope you teens who recognize yourselves will do something about it.

'Mom' And 'Dad'

Dear Ann: Should I ask our daughter-in-law not to call my husband and me Mr. and Mrs. Jones? Or should we wait until she feels like calling us something more personal?

Perhaps she never can call anyone Mom and Dad except her own parents. But Mr. and Mrs. sounds so formal. Should we say something or be patient until we earn a new title? — NEED COUNSEL.

Dear Need: Your hunch about "Mom and Dad" is probably correct, but Mr. and Mrs. Jones does seem terribly stiff. Why not suggest that she call you Mom and Dad Jones or by your first names? If she lapses back into Mr. and Mrs. don't be unhappy. You should hear what some people call their in-laws!

Man, 23, Faces Arraignment In Slaying Of Girl

BUTLER, Pa. (AP)—A New Castle man faces arraignment today on a murder charge in the slaying of a Grove City High School girl whose body was found two weeks after she disappeared from home.

Donald L. Brown, 23, was lodged in the Butler County Jail Sunday after his arrest by State Police.

The stabbed body of Miss Ada Lumpley, 16, was found Saturday in an abandoned strip mine about eight miles from her home.

Coroner J. Clinton Atwell said it was impossible to tell how long she had been dead. He said there was no evidence of rape.

Miss Lumley, one of 11 children of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lumley, had been missing from her home since Jan. 9.

Ex-Congressman Buckley Claimed

NEW YORK (AP) — Former congressman Charles A. Buckley, Bronx County Democratic boss who bucked reformers in his own party, died Sunday of lung cancer. He was 76.

Buckley, one of the first political leaders to openly support the presidential candidacy of John F. Kennedy, had been ailing for many months.

In a career that spanned a half century, Buckley began as a precinct captain and went on to serve 15 terms in Congress. He inherited the title of Bronx leader following the death in 1953 of Edward J. (Boss) Flynn, his political tutor.

Buckley believed strongly in the political machine. In his book, "You're the Boss," he wrote: "It is not only a machine. It is an army. And in any organization as in any army, there must be discipline."

He will succeed J. Paul Ambler, 70, of Mount Lebanon, who is retiring.

Stephens, with the highways department more than 30 years, previously was district engineer in the department's Indiana office.

He is a native of Dilltown.

W. Va. Students Press Protest On Stamp Plan

CLEVELAND (AP) — West Virginia college students have left 2,500 rolls of toilet paper, soap, $107 in cash and a can of soup with an East Side priest in an attempt to show the shortcomings of the federal food stamp program.

The six Wheeling College students (four boys and two girls) left the items Sunday night with the Rev. Albert Koklowsky, pastor of Our Lady of Fatima Parish.

Father Koklowsky, known as the "slum priest" for his work in the East Side Hough area, spoke at the Wheeling campus last November and mentioned that such items as toilet paper and soap cannot be purchased with the federal stamps.

The students collected the items in Wheeling Sunday and drove to Columbus, where they hoped to present them to Gov. James A. Rhodes in the hopes the govermor would exert whatever pressure he could in Washington to get the food stamp plan changed.

Rhodes, however, was in New Orleans attending a series of meetings, so the students drove to Cleveland.

The items will be distributed by Father Koklowsky's staff to the needy in the Hough area, hit by racial rioting last summer.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I need to thank someone and I don't know how to reach her. Can you help me?

I'm a grandmother-in-waiting. Someone, somewhere is carrying our unborn grandchild. Maybe she is frightened or depressed or lonely. Please let her know that our prayers have surrounded her for a long time now and tell her not to worry about the reception we will give her baby.

The room is nearly ready and the papa and mama are holding their breath in anticipation of the Big Day. Uncles and aunts by the dozen, not to mention both sets of grandparents, are so excited they can barely stand it.

Tell this young girl, Ann, to open her heart and accept the love we feel for her. The baby she is giving us through adoption will be her life-long contribution to our happiness. We will be forever in her debt.

MRS. J.L.P.

Dear Mrs. J.L.P.: In behalf of the young girl you are trying to reach I want to thank you for a beautiful sentiment. The warmth of your letter will touch millions of hearts today. You are a great lady.

Waitress Speaks

Dear Ann: I read the letter from the girl who complained that waitresses treat teen-age customers like dirt.

She described how she and her two friends left a 3-cent tip to show what they thought of the poor service.

Like every story, there are two sides — and I'd like to speak for the waitresses.

Some sandwich shops and restaurants go out after teen business. Usually they are near high schools. Our restaurant is not. We don't see many teens and I would be glad if we never saw any.

Why? Because they never leave a tip. They feel that just because they are kids it's not expected. If they would leave one nickel each it would show some appreciation for the service.

The messes these kids make are inexcusable. They set fire to the paper napkins, tear up match folders and straws, spill catsup and mustard on the walls and floor. Cigarette butts are left floating in coffee cups. Chewing gum is stuck to the bottom of saucers. They wouldn't do these things at home. Why do they do them in public?

Kids who are old enough to think they are in love are old enough to behave decently when they eat out. If you are fair you will print my letter and let us waitresses get our side before the public. — GOSPEL TRUTH.

Dear Gospel: Here is your letter and I'm sorry to say I received over 100 letters from sister waitresses who said just about the same thing.

I have seen some well-behaved teens in restaurants, so I know they all don't behave like pigs. But thanks for writing — and I hope you teens who recognize yourselves will do something about it.

'Mom' And 'Dad'

Dear Ann: Should I ask our daughter-in-law not to call my husband and me Mr. and Mrs. Jones? Or should we wait until she feels like calling us something more personal?

Perhaps she never can call anyone Mom and Dad except her own parents. But Mr. and Mrs. sounds so formal. Should we say something or be patient until we earn a new title? — NEED COUNSEL.

Dear Need: Your hunch about "Mom and Dad" is probably correct, but Mr. and Mrs. Jones does seem terribly stiff. Why not suggest that she call you Mom and Dad Jones or by your first names? If she lapses back into Mr. and Mrs. don't be unhappy. You should hear what some people call their in-laws!

Man, 23, Faces Arraignment In Slaying Of Girl

BUTLER, Pa. (AP)—A New Castle man faces arraignment today on a murder charge in the slaying of a Grove City High School girl whose body was found two weeks after she disappeared from home.

Donald L. Brown, 23, was lodged in the Butler County Jail Sunday after his arrest by State Police.

The stabbed body of Miss Ada Lumpley, 16, was found Saturday in an abandoned strip mine about eight miles from her home.

Coroner J. Clinton Atwell said it was impossible to tell how long she had been dead. He said there was no evidence of rape.

Miss Lumley, one of 11 children of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lumley, had been missing from her home since Jan. 9.

Ex-Congressman Buckley Claimed

NEW YORK (AP) — Former congressman Charles A. Buckley, Bronx County Democratic boss who bucked reformers in his own party, died Sunday of lung cancer. He was 76.

Buckley, one of the first political leaders to openly support the presidential candidacy of John F. Kennedy, had been ailing for many months.

In a career that spanned a half century, Buckley began as a precinct captain and went on to serve 15 terms in Congress. He inherited the title of Bronx leader following the death in 1953 of Edward J. (Boss) Flynn, his political tutor.

Buckley believed strongly in the political machine. In his book, "You're the Boss," he wrote: "It is not only a machine. It is an army. And in any organization as in any army, there must be discipline."

He will succeed J. Paul Ambler, 70, of Mount Lebanon, who is retiring.

W. Va. Students Press Protest On Stamp Plan

CLEVELAND (AP) — West Virginia college students have left 2,500 rolls of toilet paper, soap, $107 in cash and a can of soup with an East Side priest in an attempt to show the shortcomings of the federal food stamp program.

The six Wheeling College students (four boys and two girls) left the items Sunday night with the Rev. Albert Koklowsky, pastor of Our Lady of Fatima Parish.

Father Koklowsky, known as the "slum priest" for his work in the East Side Hough area, spoke at the Wheeling campus last November and mentioned that such items as toilet paper and soap cannot be purchased with the federal stamps.

The students collected the items in Wheeling Sunday and drove to Columbus, where they hoped to present them to Gov. James A. Rhodes in the hopes the governor would exert whatever pressure he could in Washington to get the food stamp plan changed.

Rhodes, however, was in New Orleans attending a series of meetings, so the students drove to Cleveland.

The items will be distributed by Father Koklowsky's staff to the needy in the Hough area, hit by racial rioting last summer.

Corak, Ross Plan Bids For New Beaver Terms

Beaver County Commissioners Eli G. Corak of Midland and James E. Ross of Beaver today announced they will seek nominations for new terms in the Democrat primary election in May.

The two men have served together since 1962 when Corak was appointed commissioner to replace the late Gordon Camp who was killed in an airplane crash near Harrisburg.

Corak, former Crucible Steel Co. employe, has been burgess and mayor of Midland for 12 years and is chairman of the Democrat party in the county. He successfully ran for election to the commissioner post in 1963.

A native of Midland and World War II veteran, he is married and has two daughters.

Ross, former construction worker, will be seeking his third term. He was first elected in 1959.

He formerly was a business agent for a union. He is married and has nine children.

In a joint statement, the two men declared, "Our philosophy has been to run the government of Beaver County for the people and we hope to continue doing so with public confidence and support.

"The last six years have seen a tremendous expansion of county facilities and increased demands for services in many areas. Even though problems and services have mushroomed, the county now has a lower tax rate — in 1963 we were able to reduce the rate by 1½ mills."

They referred to plans for a new mental health program, the new community college and other planned projects, and listed various programs completed at the County Home and Hospital, Courthouse, juvenile detention home, jail, public works department, airport and other agencies.

"We will work for re-election with a pledge to provide service to the people in a responsible and responsive, energetic and economical, progressive and practical manner."

Apartment Building Fire Kills Caretaker

CINCINNATI (AP)—Otis Miller, 57, died early today in a fire in an apartment building where he was the caretaker.

The fire occurred in Miller's third floor apartment and caused an estimated $1,200 damage. Miller's body was found near the door and firemen said he apparently died of smoke inhalation.

Careless smoking was believed to have caused the fire.

Washington State College was the first land grant college to have a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa.

Private Rites Are Held For Ann Sheridan

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ann Sheridan, a red-haired beauty whose sister introduced her to filmland as a practical joke, was an independent actress who was launching a new career in television when death intervened.

She died Saturday night, a month before her 52nd birthday. Even her closest friends said they were unaware of her illness.

Private funeral services were held Sunday.

Miss Sheridan's third husband, actor Scott McKay, was at her bedside when she died at their Hollywood Hills home. A friend said she succumbed to emphysema, a lung ailment. Two others said she died of cancer.

As the "oomph girl" of World War II, Miss Sheridan was a favorite pinup girl of the GIs.

Her costars included Ronald Reagan, Gary Cooper, Cary Grant, Humphrey Bogart and Errol Flynn.

One of her three sisters, now Mrs. Leo R. Kent of Fort Worth, Tex., as a joke mailed a photograph of Miss Sheridan to Paramount Pictures while her sister was attending North Texas State Teachers College in her native Denton, Tex. The picture won the studios "Search for Beauty" contest and in 1933 Miss Sheridan's career was launched.

When she died, eastern television viewers were watching her television comedy series, "Pistols 'N' Petticoats."

Police said the car in which Van Winkle and five others were riding went out of control and smashed into a utility pole. Others in the car were injured.

Budget, Liquor, Retirement Due Action

West Virginia Legislators Head For Quickened Pace

CHARLESTON (AP) — West Virginia legislators headed for a quickened pace today with debate due on a Republican move to send the budget back to the Board of Public Works, a scheduled public hearing on the liquor bill and a Senate move to reconsider last week's vote on the mandatory retirement bill.

Most of the action was destined for the House, where a public hearing on the private club liquor bill — introduced just last Friday—was scheduled for immediately after adjournment of the session.

Del. George H. Seibert Jr., R-Ohio, moved last week to send the budget bill back to the board because he said it does not meet constitutional requirements.

Seibert, with some apparent support from Democrats, contends the Board of Public Works shunned responsibility in finding the money to put scheduled educational programs into effect.

Action on Seibert's motion was put off Friday until today.

The liquor bill, which proposes to legalize liquor by the drink in "bona fide" private clubs, was introduced Friday and is shaping up as one of the most controversial issues of the session.

Restaurant interests were expected to rally to the bill's defense in today's hearing, scheduled before the House Judiciary Committee. Temperance leaders also were scheduled to appear to speak against the proposal.

Dels. Ivor Boiarsky, D-Kanawha and Fred A. Grewe Jr., R-Ohio, introduced the bill which they said could produce $5 million a year in revenue from stringent taxation the bill would put on such operations.

Bob Phillips, Charleston restaurant owner, said he would appear to speak on behalf of the bill. "It has some teeth in it," Phillips said. "At least it would enable police to enforce the law, which they can't do now."

Lined up against it is South Charleston Methodist minister, Rev. L. E. Crowson, arch liquor foe. He said the bill really wouldn't assure private clubs would only dispense liquor by the drink.

In the Senate, Sen. Carl E. Gainer, D-Nicholas, said Friday he would try today to have the vote on the mandatory retirement bill reconsidered.

Gainer's move is a technical one, intended to enable the Senate to scratch amendments added to the measure last week, which ultimately caused it to be defeated, and return it to original form.

Originally, the bill would add a simple amendment to permit persons over 70 years old to work in the Mental Health Department's "foster grandparents" program.

But other amendments added through the week were aimed at forcing the retirement of 72-year-old State Health Director N. H. Dyer.

The bill originally was introduced by Senate President Howard W. Carson, D-Fayette, but he was among those voting against it Friday because he said he could no longer recognize it as his bill.

Gainer said he would move to reconsider the bill, remove the amendments from it, and then try for another vote.

Reams Assails Republican Idea On Reapportion

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Defeated gubernatorial candidate Frazier Reams Jr. accused Republicans Sunday night of "partisan gerrymandering" in trying to get the legislature to adopt a permanent reapportionment plan.

But, Reams, a Democrat, added in a statement, he was confident that Ohio voters would not go along with such a plan.

He referred to plans in the General Assembly to make a temporary apportionment plan permanent.

"The law as it is now interpreted gives one party almost unlimited license to perpetuate itself," said Reams of Toledo, a former state senator who calls himself titular head of the Ohio Democratic Party. He lost the governor's race to Republican James A. Rhodes.

27 Windows Broken In 4 Vandalism Cases

Twenty-seven windows were broken in four vandalism cases reported over the weekend, police said.

Patrolmen W. F. Copestick and Clyde Dillon, while on routine patrol Sunday at 8:32 p. m. discovered that 21 windows had been broken in three buildings on the River Rd. owned by the Tri-State Asphalt Corp.

Vincent Laneve of 2201 Pickering Ave. told police a 6-x-10-foot storm pane covering a picture window at his home was broken by a stone hurled by a vandal Sunday night at 8:30. George Strobel of 942 Princeton Ave. told police Saturday night BB pellets were fired through two 12-x-24-inch windows in the door of his garage.

James W. Welch of Henry Ave. reported three panes of glass in his home were broken by stones Sunday between 6:30 and 9 p. m.

Study Of Local Revenue Urged In School Plans

MARYSVILLE, Ohio (AP)—The legislature can best cope with Ohio's education problems by examining local sources of revenue rather than merely adding state funds, Ohio House Speaker Charles F. Kurfess R-4 Bowling Green says.

Calling the present foundation program for schools a "hodge-podge of legislation," Kurfess said "we cannot improve distribution of state aid according to the need of the individual schools with the present program."

Originally, the bill would add a simple amendment to permit persons over 70 years old to work in the Mental Health Department's "foster grandparents" program.

But other amendments added through the week were aimed at forcing the retirement of 72-year-old State Health Director N. H. Dyer.

The bill originally was introduced by Senate President Howard W. Carson, D-Fayette, but he was among those voting against it Friday because he said he could no longer recognize it as his bill.

Gainer said he would move to reconsider the bill, remove the amendments from it, and then try for another vote.

Reams Assails Republican Idea On Reapportion

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Defeated gubernatorial candidate Frazier Reams Jr. accused Republicans Sunday night of "partisan gerrymandering" in trying to get the legislature to adopt a permanent reapportionment plan.

But, Reams, a Democrat, added in a statement, he was confident that Ohio voters would not go along with such a plan.

He referred to plans in the General Assembly to make a temporary apportionment plan permanent.

"The law as it is now interpreted gives one party almost unlimited license to perpetuate itself," said Reams of Toledo, a former state senator who calls himself titular head of the Ohio Democratic Party. He lost the governor's race to Republican James A. Rhodes.

27 Windows Broken In 4 Vandalism Cases

Twenty-seven windows were broken in four vandalism cases reported over the weekend, police said.

Patrolmen W. F. Copestick and Clyde Dillon, while on routine patrol Sunday at 8:32 p. m. discovered that 21 windows had been broken in three buildings on the River Rd. owned by the Tri-State Asphalt Corp.

Vincent Laneve of 2201 Pickering Ave. told police a 6-x-10-foot storm pane covering a picture window at his home was broken by a stone hurled by a vandal Sunday night at 8:30. George Strobel of 942 Princeton Ave. told police Saturday night BB pellets were fired through two 12-x-24-inch windows in the door of his garage.

James W. Welch of Henry Ave. reported three panes of glass in his home were broken by stones Sunday between 6:30 and 9 p. m.

Study Of Local Revenue Urged In School Plans

MARYSVILLE, Ohio (AP)—The legislature can best cope with Ohio's education problems by examining local sources of revenue rather than merely adding state funds, Ohio House Speaker Charles F. Kurfess R-4 Bowling Green says.

Calling the present foundation program for schools a "hodge-podge of legislation," Kurfess said "we cannot improve distribution of state aid according to the need of the individual schools with the present program."

Potters Surprise Massillon With Late Flurry, 66-59

The Review Sports
MONDAY, JANUARY 23, 1967 PAGE 16

BRUCE CHRISTIAN (42) snags this rebound for the Potters as he goes up high in front of Massillon's Brian Westover as East Liverpool defeated the Tigers, 66-59, Saturday night.

McVay's 20 Paces Victory No. 7 For Local Five

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

The East Liverpool Potters turned in their finest hour of the current season and as a result scored a 66-59 victory in what could be termed a mild surprise over the Massillon Tigers Saturday night before 1,200 excited fans at Memorial Auditorium.

The Potters defeated a Massillon club which only the night before had beaten Cuyahoga Falls, the state's sixth ranked team, by an 81-61 margin.

SATURDAY night's victory marked the first time the Potters had taken a weekend set as their record blossomed to 7-5 while Massillon now shows an 8-5 slate.

Coach Clinton McConnell showered praise on his team following the contest and the victory was the most satisfying of the season for McConnell and his team.

The Potter coach said "we showed good poise tonight and didn't falter in the late stages. He was pleased with the work of his starting five and called the victory "strictly a team effort and a result of hard work by the players."

Pinpointing key plays throughout the game and especially in the final period by the starting five shows clear evidence of a team victory.

There was Bruce Christian, the 6-4 junior who turned in a brilliant job of defense in holding Massillon's 6-7 sophomore Brian Westover to only three points for the game. Westover was the leading scorer for the Tigers showing a 15-point average. He had scored 22 in the win over Cuyahoga Falls.

—:—

CHRISTIAN won the acclaim of McConnell who said "Bruce did an excellent job defending Westover, the best I have seen in a long time."

Besides Christian's defensive work there was the key three-point play by Vern Smith who grabbed a rebound, scored and was fouled. He converted the foul to tie the game at 57-57 with 2:23 remaining.

Mike McVay must come in for a big share of the credit as he hit his varsity career high connecting for 20 points, but it was his excellent foul shooting that kept the Potters in the running in the late stages as he made five straight fouls in the crucial fourth quarter.

MITCHELL Jones, the 6-5 junior, was the workhorse on the backboards while he was in the game and grabbed 14 rebounds battling against Westover and 6-6 Mike Sherrett.

The Potters' other starter, Earl Diddle, rounded out the team effort as he turned in an important basket in the fourth period. With East Liverpool leading 59-57, Diddle cleverly drove around his guard to score on a layup which pushed the Potters in front, 61-57, with only 1:27 to go.

The victory was a case of the Potters having more fire power coming down the stretch as they scored 12 consecutive points in the last two minutes and 23 seconds.

FOULS claimed five players as the Potters lost two and Massillon three. East Liverpool lost most of its height when Jones left with 7:03 to go in the game while Christian stayed around until 3:33 to go.

Massillon lost its big men with Westover leaving at 5:30 remaining and Sherrett committed his fifth at the 2:23 mark. Before they fouled out, Howard Grizzard who had scored 15 points in the first three quarters, left with 7:18 remaining in the game.

—:—

THE CONTEST was a see-saw affair all the way with the two opponents producing 15 ties while the lead exchanged hands on 13 different occasions.

The largest point margin before the final result was five points held by Massillon 30-25 late in the second quarter.

Including Smith's three-point play which tied the game at 2:23, the Potters put together 12 straight points going from a 57-54 deficit to a 64-57 lead.

The late flurry was opened by Smith while McVay followed with two fouls at the 1:57 mark to put East Liverpool on top for good, 59-57. Diddle came up with his drive for a 61-57 lead with 1:27 to go then McVay added a basket and foul for a 64-57 margin before Dick Witherow's goal put the icing on the cake with 28 seconds to go extending East Liverpool's lead to 66-57. Massillon's Will Foster scored at the buzzer to end the game.

BOTH TEAMS had some turnovers which caused Massillon Coach Nick Vrotsos to comment that "both teams played ragged at times, especially our boys." The Massillon mentor pointed out, "we went all out the night before against Cuyahoga Falls and it has been a pattern with us that we can't win two tough games in a row playing Friday and Saturday night."

For East Liverpool the contest was the best four quarters the Potters have put together all season.

While McVay led the scoring with 20, Smith was next in line with 15, falling under the 20 point mark for the first time in four games. Christian added 11 points while Jones and Diddle had nine each to give the Potters good balance in the scoring department.

—:—

McCONNELL also was enlightened by the fact his team outrebounded Massillon 48-45. Jones led this department with 14. Smith grabbed 10 and Christian took nine while Herring and McVay hustled after five apiece. Witherow also was a help on the boards in the late stages.

Each team shot 32 per cent with East Liverpool making 22 of 68 and Massillon 21 of 65.

FOSTER and Grizzard led Massillon's scoring with 12 each while Krenzer had 12. Sherrett scored nine points, but only showed two field goals as the Tigers' height did not hurt East Liverpool that much. Westover was held to one field goal and that didn't come until the third quarter.

East Liverpool led 17-15 at the end of the first period, but fell behind, 34-31, at halftime. Massillon continued to lead at the third quarter stop, 49-47, before the Potters came on strong with the late burst.

East Liverpool plays only one game this week when Salem visits Memorial Auditorium Saturday night.

Potters Surprise Massillon With Late Flurry, 66-59

BRUCE CHRISTIAN (42) snags this rebound for the Potters as he goes up high in front of Massillon's Brian Westover as East Liverpool defeated the Tigers, 66-59, Saturday night.

McVay's 20 Paces Victory No. 7 For Local Five

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

The East Liverpool Potters turned in their finest hour of the current season and as a result scored a 66-59 victory in what could be termed a mild surprise over the Massillon Tigers Saturday night before 1,200 excited fans at Memorial Auditorium.

The Potters defeated a Massillon club which only the night before had beaten Cuyahoga Falls, the state's sixth ranked team, by an 81-61 margin.

—:—

SATURDAY night's victory marked the first time the Potters had taken a weekend set as their record blossomed to 7-5 while Massillon now shows an 8-5 slate.

Coach Clinton McConnell showered praise on his team following the contest and the victory was the most satisfying of the season for McConnell and his team.

The Potter coach said "we showed good poise tonight and didn't falter in the late stages. He was pleased with the work of his starting five and called the victory "strictly a team effort and a result of hard work by the players."

Pinpointing key plays throughout the game and especially in the final period by the starting five shows clear evidence of a team victory.

There was Bruce Christian, the 6-4 junior who turned in a brilliant job of defense in holding Massillon's 6-7 sophomore Brian Westover to only three points for the game. Westover was the leading scorer for the Tigers showing a 15-point average. He had scored 22 in the win over Cuyahoga Falls.

—:—

CHRISTIAN won the acclaim of McConnell who said "Bruce did an excellent job defending Westover, the best I have seen in a long time."

Besides Christian's defensive work there was the key three-point play by Vern Smith who grabbed a rebound, scored and was fouled. He converted the foul to tie the game at 57-57 with 2:23 remaining.

Mike McVay must come in for a big share of the credit as he hit his varsity career high connecting for 20 points, but it was his excellent foul shooting that kept the Potters in the running in the late stages as he made five straight fouls in the crucial fourth quarter.

MITCHELL Jones, the 6-5 junior, was the workhorse on the backboards while he was in the game and grabbed 14 rebounds battling against Westover and 6-6 Mike Sherrett.

The Potters' other starter, Earl Diddle, rounded out the team effort as he turned in an important basket in the fourth period. With East Liverpool leading 59-57, Diddle cleverly drove around his guard to score on a layup which pushed the Potters in front, 61-57, with only 1:27 to go.

The victory was a case of the Potters having more fire power coming down the stretch as they scored 12 consecutive points in the last two minutes and 23 seconds.

FOULS claimed five players as the Potters lost two and Massillon three. East Liverpool lost most of its height when Jones left with 7:03 to go in the game while Christian stayed around until 3:33 to go.

Massillon lost its big men with Westover leaving at 5:30 remaining and Sherrett committed his fifth at the 2:23 mark. Before they fouled out, Howard Grizzard who had scored 15 points in the first three quarters, left with 7:18 remaining in the game.

THE CONTEST was a see-saw affair all the way with the two opponents producing 15 ties while the lead exchanged hands on 13 different occasions.

The largest point margin before the final result was five points held by Massillon 30-25 late in the second quarter.

Including Smith's three-point play which tied the game at 2:23, the Potters put together 12 straight points going from a 57-54 deficit to a 64-57 lead.

The late flurry was opened by Smith while McVay followed with two fouls at the 1:57 mark to put East Liverpool on top for good, 59-57. Diddle came up with his drive for a 61-57 lead with 1:27 to go then McVay added a basket and foul for a 64-57 margin before Dick Witherow's goal put the icing on the cake with 28 seconds to go extending East Liverpool's lead to 66-57. Massillon's Will Foster scored at the buzzer to end the game.

BOTH TEAMS had some turnovers which caused Massillon Coach Nick Vrotsos to comment that "both teams played ragged at times, especially our boys." The Massillon mentor pointed out, "we went all out the night before against Cuyahoga Falls and it has been a pattern with us that we can't win two tough games in a row playing Friday and Saturday night."

For East Liverpool the contest was the best four quarters the Potters have put together all season.

While McVay led the scoring with 20, Smith was next in line with 15, falling under the 20 point mark for the first time in four games. Christian added 11 points while Jones and Diddle had nine each to give the Potters good balance in the scoring department.

—:—

McCONNELL also was enlightened by the fact his team outrebounded Massillon 48-45. Jones led this department with 14. Smith grabbed 10 and Christian took nine while Herring and McVay hustled after five apiece. Witherow also was a help on the boards in the late stages.

Each team shot 32 per cent with East Liverpool making 22 of 68 and Massillon 21 of 65.

FOSTER and Grizzard led Massillon's scoring with 12 each while Krenzer had 12. Sherrett scored nine points, but only showed two field goals as the Tigers' height did not hurt East Liverpool that much. Westover was held to one field goal and that didn't come until the third quarter.

East Liverpool led 17-15 at the end of the first period, but fell behind, 34-31, at halftime. Massillon continued to lead at the third quarter stop, 49-47, before the Potters came on strong with the late burst.

East Liverpool plays only one game this week when Salem visits Memorial Auditorium Saturday night.

East Wins In NFL Battle

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tom Landry, coach of the Dallas Cowboys and the all-stars of the National Football League's Eastern Division, thinks his conference has closed the talent gap with the West—and the Pro Bowl supports his contention.

Landry's Easterners slugged out a 20-10 win over the West in a persistent rain Sunday before 15,062 fans. The success was the second in a row for the East stars, who, a year ago, dumped their Western counterparts, 36-7.

Landry's own Dallas Cowboys made a case for the East just three weeks ago when they came within a whisker of tying Western winner Green Bay in the NFL title game. The Packers prevailed, 34-27, but the Cowboys proved a worth contender.

Now Landry was a winner and smiled as he praised his team: "We had a fine game. Defensively, we made the key plays and that decided the ballgame. Offensively, we missed a lot of chances, of course, but I thought (quarterback Don) Meredith played well in the first quarter and (quarterback Frank) Ryan played well in the second period. Then, in the second half we lost momentum."

For the first 30 minutes, the East was dominant to the point of embarrassment.

Pittsburgh's Mike Clark opened the scoring with first-period field goals of 18 and 17 yards.

In the second quarter, Cleveland's Ryan hit teammate Gary Collins on a 24-yard pass that put the ball on the two-yard line. Moments later, Johnny Roland of St. Louis smashed through for the score.

Then defensive back Larry Wilson, also of St. Louis, intercepted a pass and Ryan found Collins in the end zone with an 18-yard scoring throw.

Additionally, Clark missed three field goals in the half and, statistically, the East outplayed the West better than 2-1.

The West defense rallied in the second half and the offense moved the ball well, but a strong eastern pass rush and three interceptions preserved the lead.

Bruce Gossett of Los Angeles kicked a 27-yard field goal in the third quarter and San Francisco's Ken Willard caught a 51-yard touchdown pass from Bart Starr of Green Bay in the final quarter—but the West never really theatened to pull out a victory.

Despite the West's defeat, Chicago's exciting runner, Gayle Sayers, was voted the outstanding back of the game. The second-year pro from Kansas gained 110 yards in just 11 carries — including a twisting, 52-yard sprint.

Floyd Peters, a nine-year defensive tackle for the Philadelphia Eagles and the East, was named the top lineman, primarily for his intensive pass rush that kept the Western quarterbacks off balance much of the time.

UCLA Wins Pair, Cincy Upends No. 2 Louisville

By DICK COUCH

If UCLA's prodigious Bruins have trouble getting excited about their trip to Chicago this week, Coach John Wooden probably will be glad to settle for a repeat of last Saturday's letdown.

The top-ranked Bruins ran their unbeaten string to 14 games over the weekend by thrashing Portland 122-57 and California Santa Barbara 119-75.

"We let down a little Saturday," said Wooden — with a straight face.

UCLA should get stiffer arguments from Illinois and Chicago Loyola Friday and Saturday nights in the Windy City, but the ever-cautious Wooden wonders whether his young club might be taking the trip for granted.

UCLA raced to a 10-0 lead over Portland Friday night and breezed home, 7-foot-1 Lew Alcindor leading the way with 27 points. Then the Bruins wrecked Santa Barbara's floater defense Saturday night and topped the century mark for the seventh time.

"We felt the only way to defend against them was to let one of their men go," said Santa Barbara pilot Ralph Barkey. Lucious Allen, the man most often free as the Gakchos concentrated on blanketing Alcindor, poured in nine points, three more than Large Lew.

The Bruins meet Illinois in the nightcap of Friday night doubleheader after Chicago Loyola and Brigham Young collide in the opener. Saturday, they try to avenge last season's 102-96 overtime loss to Loyola in part of a tripleheader that also pits Brigham Young against sixth-ranked Texas Western and Illinois against Notre Dame.

While UCLA was running up points last weekend, three other national powers — No. 2 Louisville, No. 8 Florida and No. 9 New Mexico — were running aground.

Gordon Smith's 20-foot jump shot with five seconds to play lifted Cincinnati past Louisville 59-58, tightening the Missouri Valley Conference race. The Cardinals, now 15-2 over-all, still lead the MVC with a 4-1 mark, but Wichita, 3-1, Tulsa, 2-1, Cincy, 3-2, and Bradley, 3-3 all are within range.

Tennessee led by Ron Widby's 13 points and a tenacious defense, subdued Florida 56-42 for its second victory over the Gators in six days. The Vols, who trail first-place Vanderbilt by one-half game in the Southeastern Conference, visit Kentucky tonight while the Gators try to rebound at Georgia.

Brigham Young trimmed New Mexico 89-73, extending the Lobos losing streak to four games, as 6-foot-11 Jim Eakins scored 15 of his 21 points in the first half. The victory gave the Cougars a 4-0 Western Athletic Conference mark.

Texas Western, 12-2, humiliated Weber State 72-38 and seventh - ranked Kansas, 12-3, topped Iowa State 73-65. Third-ranked Houston, No. 4 North Carolina, No. 5 Princeton and No. 10 Providence were idle.

Unbeaten Toledo came from behind in regulation play and trimmed Villanova 72-65 in overtime for its 10th victory; once-beaten Western Kentucky ran its winning string to 14 by downing LaSalle 95-86 and Southern Illinois, the nation's top small college team, toppled Wichita 77-55.

Griffith Puts His Title On Line Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — "I'm going to beat him real good and shut his mouth," predicted middleweight champion Emile Griffith as he awaited his title defense against Joey Archer tonight at Madison Square Garden.

"I beat him before and didn't get the decision so this time I'll make sure it's not even close," rebutted Archer, the 29-year-old challenger from New York.

The 28-year-old champion, winner over Archer by majority decision last July 13, is a 7-5 favorite to make it two straight in the scheduled 15-rounder.

It will be telecast live nationally and to Mexico but New York will be blacked out. Starting time is 10 p.m., EST.

Garden officials forecast a crowd of 14,000 will pay upwards of $100,000 at prices ranging from $5 to $20. Griffith has been guaranteed $75,000 against 45 per cent of all receipts. Archer will get 15 per cent of all receipts.

Archer was a 13-10 favorite in the first fight which drew 13,776 customers and a gate of $102,246.

The return bout has been postponed twice, first by Archer's virus infection and then when Griffith twisted his right ankle in training, tearing a cartilage in the ankle.

This will be the 15th title fight for Griffith, who held the welterweight crown before he dethroned Dick Tiger as middleweight king of April 25. The champ will be aiming for his seventh straight victory and eighth consecutive triumph in a world title contest.

Griffith's record is 51-7, including 18 knockouts. He has been stopped once.

Archer has a 46-3 record, including only nine knockouts.

The best round of putting during the 1966 PGA tour was turned in by Randy Glover in the Oklahoma City Open. On the third round he took only 20 putts.

Howsam Gets Cincinnati's GM Position

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Robert L. Howsam, an advocate of "growing your players" through a strong farm system, is the new general manager of the Cincinnati Reds of the National League.

Howsam, general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals since 1964, was named Sunday to succeed William O. DeWitt. DeWitt has been serving as interim general manger since he sold the baseball club recently to a group of Cincinnatians for an estimated $7 million.

DeWitt will stay on as a consultant.

Announcement of Howsam's appointment was made by Francis L. Dale, club president, and William J. Williams, chairman of a selections committee. Dale also is president and publisher of the Cincinnati Enquirer.

Calling his new job a "tremendous challenge" because he will be in complete charge of the club, Howsam said:

"This is an opportunity that comes only once or maybe a few times in a lifetime."

Howsam was given a three-year contract.

He said he had no contract with the Cardinals and that he understood there might be an announcement in St. Louis Tuesday about his successor.

Howsam, in discussing the Reds team, called it a "talented" and young club and one "with a future."

"I think with a few breaks here and there, particularly as to the pitching, we can make a run for it (the pennant)," he said.

Howsam, 48, married and a native of Denver, has been in baseball in an executive position for 20 years. He was general manager of the Denver Bears, of the old American Association for 12 years. He also was one of the founders of the American Football League and was president of the Denver Broncos of the AFL in 1960.

He also worked four years with George Weiss (then head man of the Yankees) as head of the Denver franchise, two with Branch Rickey, and one with John Quinn, one of the league's top front office men.

Dale explained that one factor in picking Howsam was that he had experience in the transition from an old park to a new stadium when the Cardinals moved last year. Plans for a new stadium figured in the Reds' sale.

One of the new general manager's first jobs will be to confer with city officials on the contract with the new ownership and plans for the stadium.

East Beats West In AFL, 30 To 23

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The site for the next American Football League All-Star Game — if there is a next one — remains uncertain.

The vagabond contest stopped in Oakland last Saturday and the East took its first-ever victory by beating the West 30-23 behind Boston quarterback Babe Parilli, at 36 the oldest player on the field.

A two-day downpour created a 10-yard-long ankle-deep puddle on the north side of the Oakland Coliseum turf.

An announced crowd of 17,876, second smallest in the six-year history of the game, and the national televison audience got plenty of thrills from freak plays caused by the muddy going.

The AFL All-Star Game has been played in San Diego, Houston and Oakland. It got within one day of appearing in New Orleans two years ago when Negro players walked out after saying they had been insulted.

The site for the next one remains undecided, although the league meeting Feb. 13 in Miami may select it. One week later, the National Football League gathers in Hawaii and this could have some bearing on the AFL game.

For on Sunday, the NFL All-Star Game — called the Pro Bowl — drew only 15,062 in Los Angeles for the smallest crowd at that event in its 17 years.

Players from both leagues have suggested a Super All-Star Game because the merger has produced the Super Bowl and drained interest from each league's all star contest.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle said at Oakland that each league has a contract with its respective television network through 1970 and that the Los Angeles newspaper publishers have "seven or eight years" to go on a contract for the NFL clash.

He said he doubted whether a merged game could come about next year.

While the speculation was going on in the stands, the top AFL players were slipping and sliding on the field. The miserable weather conditions caused nine fumbles, eight interceptions, two safeties and numerous other soggy mishaps.

The abnormal nature of the game was shown by the East scoring 30 points despite gaining only 168 offensive yards, an All-Star record.

The winning touchdown was a 17-yard Parilli pass to Houston's Charley Frazier, who fell in a pool of water with a big splash short of the goal line but surfaced and ran over with 7:42 to go.

That earned the East, which had been behind 23-2 with 19 minutes to go, $1,000 each and left the West with $600 paychecks. It also earned Parilli the press box vote as most valuable offensive player. Verlon Biggs of New York was named most valuable defensive player.

Biggs ran an interception back 50 yards for a touchdown in the third quarter. The pass from Len Dawson of Kansas City traveled about six inches after slipping out of the quarterback's hand.

Minerva Blasts Palestine 98-74

MINERVA — Ben Greco and Ron Riemenshneider combined for 58 points here Saturday night as Minerva whipped a visiting East Palestine five, 98-74, in a Tri-County League game.

The reverse left the Bulldogs with a 7-6 mark for the season.

Greco poured in 33 points and Riemenshneider 25. Dan Dagar collected 17 and Mike Simms 11 for the winners.

Dan Scott's 23 paced East Palestine while Jim Parker bagged 17 and Dan McKinstry 16.

Minerva held quarter leads of 23-17, 48-38 and 71-58.

The reserve game also went to Minerva, 69-40.

Third Wanted In Bank Robbery Surrenders

LORAIN, Ohio (AP)—A third man wanted in connection with a Lorain bank robbery surrendered to police here Sunday.

FBI agents took John F. Rogers, 21, of Lorain, in custody following his surrender.

Arthur J. Holmes, 19, and Donald Davis, 19, both of Lorain, were arrested by police and FBI agents last week in connection with the $10,000 robbery Jan. 13 of the Colorado Avenue branch of the Central Security National Bank. They and Rogers were being held in the Cuyahoga County Jail at Cleveland.

Casper Leads Jack, Arnie In Crosby Golf

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Billy Casper, Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer, each a winner of more than $100,000 in 1966, led the race for top cash in Bing Crosby's $104,500 Golf Tournament heading into the stretch today.

Casper, at 215, led by a stroke as the only golfer, among the 168 pros who started, to better par for 54 holes. Pressing the U.S. Open champion at 216 were Masters' champ Nicklaus and Palmer, the leading money winner of all time.

They battle 75 other finalists for a $16,000 top prize. Casper led the pro golfers last year with $121,944, Nicklaus finished second at $111,419 and Palmer earned $110,467.

Golfers dueled over the long Pebble Beach course, attested one of the world's best, where one errant shot can ruin a round.

All the finalists have played three courses already — Cypress Point, Spyglass Hill and Pebble Beach — with varying success. The tournament runs a day longer than usual because a Pacific storm canceled Saturday's play.

After Sunday, Bill Parker of West Orange, N.J., surprisingly found himself in fourth place with a 70 and 217.

Jim Colbert of Kansas City, Kan., Jerry Pittman of Locust Valley, N.Y., each with 74, and PGA champ Al Geiberger of Carlton Oaks, Calif., with 71, were all at 218.

For the third 18-hole test, Nicklaus scrambled at soggy Spyglass Hill, Palmer charged at Cypress Point and the methodical Casper passed them both with his routinely spectacular game at Pebble, where twice he has won.

The San Diego Star set a tournament record of 277 in 1956 and won again in 1963. His closest competitors haven't captured the Crosby although each has finished in the runner-up spot.

Bob Rosburg took only nine putts on the back nine holes during the second round of the 1966 Seattle Open. It was the best putting effort on the PGA tour.

Beaver Falls Routs Wellsville, Rolls To 88-41 Decision

Tigers Suffer Ninth Defeat Of Campaign

Beaver Falls stepped out of the tough Section 3 of the WPIAL Saturday night to outclass Wellsville, 88-41, on the Wellsville court.

After a close first quarter, Coach Frank Chan's Pennsylvania squad rolled in high gear. Posting a 17-14 first period lead, Beaver Falls pushed the score to 38-22 at halftime then led 65-30 after three quarters had been completed.

Cockfield sparked the winners in the second quarter by opening with four straight field goals that moved Beaver Falls into a commanding lead.

Bob Wagner wound up with 25 points to lead the visiting Tigers while Cockfield added 15.

Bob Morehead, Wellsville's leading point maker scored 15, hitting five field goals and enjoyed a perfect five-for-five night from the foul line.

The Tigers made 13 of 15 foul attempts.

The loss left Wellsville with a 2-9 record as the Tigers could not match the height of the taller Pennsylvanians.

Wellsville is on the road Friday at Salem but returns home to meet Jefferson Union Saturday night. One of the Tigers two victories was over Jefferson Union.

In the reserve contest, Beaver Falls rolled to a 70-33 victory. Bob Garvin paced the visitors with 19 points while Rick Ross scored 12 for Wellsville.

East Wins In NFL Battle

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tom Landry, coach of the Dallas Cowboys and the all-stars of the National Football League's Eastern Division, thinks his conference has closed the talent gap with the West—and the Pro Bowl supports his contention.

Landry's Easterners slugged out a 20-10 win over the West in a persistent rain Sunday before 15,062 fans. The success was the second in a row for the East stars, who, a year ago, dumped their Western counterparts, 36-7.

Landry's own Dallas Cowboys made a case for the East just three weeks ago when they came within a whisker of tying Western winner Green Bay in the NFL title game. The Packers prevailed, 34-27, but the Cowboys proved a worth contender.

Now Landry was a winner and smiled as he praised his team: "We had a fine game. Defensively, we made the key plays and that decided the ballgame. Offensively, we missed a lot of chances, of course, but I thought (quarterback Don) Meredith played well in the first quarter and (quarterback Frank) Ryan played well in the second period. Then, in the second half we lost momentum."

For the first 30 minutes, the East was dominant to the point of embarrassment.

Pittsburgh's Mike Clark opened the scoring with first-period field goals of 18 and 17 yards.

In the second quarter, Cleveland's Ryan hit teammate Gary Collins on a 24-yard pass that put the ball on the two-yard line. Moments later, Johnny Roland of St. Louis smashed through for the score.

Then defensive back Larry Wilson, also of St. Louis, intercepted a pass and Ryan found Collins in the end zone with an 18-yard scoring throw.

Additionally, Clark missed three field goals in the half and, statistically, the East outplayed the West better than 2-1.

The West defense rallied in the second half and the offense moved the ball well, but a strong eastern pass rush and three interceptions preserved the lead.

Bruce Gossett of Los Angeles kicked a 27-yard field goal in the third quarter and San Francisco's Ken Willard caught a 51-yard touchdown pass from Bart Starr of Green Bay in the final quarter—but the West never really theatened to pull out a victory.

Despite the West's defeat, Chicago's exciting runner, Gayle Sayers, was voted the outstanding back of the game. The second-year pro from Kansas gained 110 yards in just 11 carries — including a twisting, 52-yard sprint.

Floyd Peters, a nine-year defensive tackle for the Philadelphia Eagles and the East, was named the top lineman, primarily for his intensive pass rush that kept the Western quarterbacks off balance much of the time.

Howsam Gets Cincinnati's GM Position

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Robert L. Howsam, an advocate of "growing your players" through a strong farm system, is the new general manager of the Cincinnati Reds of the National League.

Howsam, general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals since 1964, was named Sunday to succeed William O. DeWitt. DeWitt has been serving as interim general manger since he sold the baseball club recently to a group of Cincinnatians for an estimated $7 million.

DeWitt will stay on as a consultant.

Announcement of Howsam's appointment was made by Francis L. Dale, club president, and William J. Williams, chairman of a selections committee. Dale also is president and publisher of the Cincinnati Enquirer.

Calling his new job a "tremendous challenge" because he will be in complete charge of the club, Howsam said:

"This is an opportunity that comes only once or maybe a few times in a lifetime."

Howsam was given a three-year contract.

He said he had no contract with the Cardinals and that he understood there might be an announcement in St. Louis Tuesday about his successor.

Howsam, in discussing the Reds team, called it a "talented" and young club and one "with a future."

"I think with a few breaks here and there, particularly as to the pitching, we can make a run for it (the pennant)," he said.

Howsam, 48, married and a native of Denver, has been in baseball in an executive position for 20 years. He was general manager of the Denver Bears, of the old American Association for 12 years. He also was one of the founders of the American Football League and was president of the Denver Broncos of the AFL in 1960.

He also worked four years with George Weiss (then head man of the Yankees) as head of the Denver franchise, two with Branch Rickey, and one with John Quinn, one of the league's top front office men.

Dale explained that one factor in picking Howsam was that he had experience in the transition from an old park to a new stadium when the Cardinals moved last year. Plans for a new stadium figured in the Reds' sale.

One of the new general manager's first jobs will be to confer with city officials on the contract with the new ownership and plans for the stadium.

East Beats West In AFL, 30 To 23

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The site for the next American Football League All-Star Game — if there is a next one — remains uncertain.

The vagabond contest stopped in Oakland last Saturday and the East took its first-ever victory by beating the West 30-23 behind Boston quarterback Babe Parilli, at 36 the oldest player on the field.

A two-day downpour created a 10-yard-long ankle-deep puddle on the north side of the Oakland Coliseum turf.

An announced crowd of 17,876, second smallest in the six-year history of the game, and the national televison audience got plenty of thrills from freak plays caused by the muddy going.

The AFL All-Star Game has been played in San Diego, Houston and Oakland. It got within one day of appearing in New Orleans two years ago when Negro players walked out after saying they had been insulted.

The site for the next one remains undecided, although the league meeting Feb. 13 in Miami may select it. One week later, the National Football League gathers in Hawaii and this could have some bearing on the AFL game.

For on Sunday, the NFL All-Star Game — called the Pro Bowl — drew only 15,062 in Los Angeles for the smallest crowd at that event in its 17 years.

Players from both leagues have suggested a Super All-Star Game because the merger has produced the Super Bowl and drained interest from each league's all star contest.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle said at Oakland that each league has a contract with its respective television network through 1970 and that the Los Angeles newspaper publishers have "seven or eight years" to go on a contract for the NFL clash.

He said he doubted whether a merged game could come about next year.

While the speculation was going on in the stands, the top AFL players were slipping and sliding on the field. The miserable weather conditions caused nine fumbles, eight interceptions, two safeties and numerous other soggy mishaps.

The abnormal nature of the game was shown by the East scoring 30 points despite gaining only 168 offensive yards, an All-Star record.

The winning touchdown was a 17-yard Parilli pass to Houston's Charley Frazier, who fell in a pool of water with a big splash short of the goal line but surfaced and ran over with 7:42 to go.

That earned the East, which had been behind 23-2 with 19 minutes to go, $1,000 each and left the West with $600 paychecks. It also earned Parilli the press box vote as most valuable offensive player. Verlon Biggs of New York was named most valuable defensive player.

Biggs ran an interception back 50 yards for a touchdown in the third quarter. The pass from Len Dawson of Kansas City traveled about six inches after slipping out of the quarterback's hand.

Minerva Blasts Palestine 98-74

MINERVA — Ben Greco and Ron Riemenshneider combined for 58 points here Saturday night as Minerva whipped a visiting East Palestine five, 98-74, in a Tri-County League game.

The reverse left the Bulldogs with a 7-6 mark for the season.

Greco poured in 33 points and Riemenshneider 25. Dan Dagar collected 17 and Mike Simms 11 for the winners.

Dan Scott's 23 paced East Palestine while Jim Parker bagged 17 and Dan McKinstry 16.

Minerva held quarter leads of 23-17, 48-38 and 71-58.

The reserve game also went to Minerva, 69-40.

Third Wanted In Bank Robbery Surrenders

LORAIN, Ohio (AP)—A third man wanted in connection with a Lorain bank robbery surrendered to police here Sunday.

FBI agents took John F. Rogers, 21, of Lorain, in custody following his surrender.

Arthur J. Holmes, 19, and Donald Davis, 19, both of Lorain, were arrested by police and FBI agents last week in connection with the $10,000 robbery Jan. 13 of the Colorado Avenue branch of the Central Security National Bank. They and Rogers were being held in the Cuyahoga County Jail at Cleveland.

Casper Leads Jack, Arnie In Crosby Golf

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Billy Casper, Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer, each a winner of more than $100,000 in 1966, led the race for top cash in Bing Crosby's $104,500 Golf Tournament heading into the stretch today.

Casper, at 215, led by a stroke as the only golfer, among the 168 pros who started, to better par for 54 holes. Pressing the U.S. Open champion at 216 were Masters' champ Nicklaus and Palmer, the leading money winner of all time.

They battle 75 other finalists for a $16,000 top prize. Casper led the pro golfers last year with $121,944. Nicklaus finished second at $111,419 and Palmer earned $110,467.

Golfers dueled over the long Pebble Beach course, attested one of the world's best, where one errant shot can ruin a round.

All the finalists have played three courses already — Cypress Point, Spyglass Hill and Pebble Beach — with varying success. The tournament runs a day longer than usual because a Pacific storm canceled Saturday's play.

After Sunday, Bill Parker of West Orange, N.J., surprisingly found himself in fourth place with a 70 and 217.

Jim Colbert of Kansas City, Kan., Jerry Pittman of Locust Valley, N.Y., each with 74, and PGA champ Al Geiberger of Carlton Oaks, Calif., with 71, were all at 218.

For the third 18-hole test, Nicklaus scrambled at soggy Spyglass Hill, Palmer charged at Cypress Point and the methodical Casper passed them both with his routinely spectacular game at Pebble, where twice he has won.

The San Diego Star set a tournament record of 277 in 1958 and won again in 1963. His closest competitors haven't captured the Crosby although each has finished in the runner-up spot.

Bob Rosburg took only nine putts on the back nine holes during the second round of the 1966 Seattle Open. It was the best putting effort on the PGA tour.

Varnish Banishes Furniture Flaws

After a good revarnishing job, even Grandma's oldest heirloom can provide a delightful touch in a modern furniture setting.

To refinish an old piece of furniture, it is often necessary to remove the old finish. A non-flammable, wax - free chemical paint and varnish remover is the safest and easiest to use. Wear old clothes, work in a well-ventilated area, and be sure to wear rubber gloves to protect your skin.

—:—

SPREAD THE remover on liberally with the side of your brush, stroking in one direction only. Apply remover to one section at a time, allowing it to soak in until the entire finish is soft. Then scrape off the softened finish carefully with a dull, putty knife to avoid scratching the wood.

To take off remover in tricky areas, the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association of Washington, D. C., recommends that you use steel wool, pointed sticks, or an old toothbrush.

After scraping off the remover, sand the furniture well, beginning with medium or fine grade sandpaper and finishing with very fine. Sand with the grain to eliminate scratching the wood.

If you don't like the color of the wood, change it. If the wood is too dark, bleach it using a commercially prepared wood bleach. Most of these are two-solution preparations.

First apply the bleach with a brush or sponge and allow it to dry until the right shade is reached. Next rinse or neutralize according to the manufacturer's directions. When the furniture is perfectly dry (a matter of a day or two), sand lightly with very fine sandpaper.

If the wood is too light, stain it. Remove all exposed hardware and clean all grease or dirt marks by sanding or wiping with denatured alcohol. Pigmented oil stains or combination stain-sealers are very popular for use on furniture. To check the color, first apply the stain to an inconspicuous place, allow it to dry, and then apply the final finish. If the test area is blotchy, you should apply a wash coat of clear penetrating sealer first.

Apply the stain with a lint-free cloth or brush, working on one section at a time. Allow it to stand for a few minutes, then wipe lightly with a lint - free cloth until you obtain a uniform color. Begin with the more inconspicuous parts and do the front faces and tops last. Since end grained wood absorbs more stain, apply sparingly. Now let the stain dry overnight and you will be ready to apply the varnish.

QUALITY varnish is resistant to water and other liquids. Get a hard - drying type for furniture. A smooth finish requires at least two coats with light sanding between each. After sanding, always completely clean the surface with line-free cloths. Never work in a dusty location or apply varnish when the air is humid or cold.

Apply varnish with a quality bristle brush in parallel strokes, then cross - stroke by brushing immediately at right angles. Next stroke lightly with an almost dry brush, working parallel to the grain for a uniform finish.

If the final coat is marred by dust specks or is too high a gloss, a final rubbing is your answer. Allow the varnish to harden for a week. Then mix a paste of powdered pumice stone and motor or machine oil and rub it on parallel to the grain with a pad of heavy, lintless cloth until the surface is completely smooth. Wipe off remaining residue with a clean, dry cloth.

To restore a high luster, a second polishing is necessary. Mix a paste of powdered rottenstone and crude oil and rub as described above. When the desired luster is reached, rub off residue with clean cloths until the surface squeaks.

With care and a little effort, you can change any piece of furniture from an uninspiring dust catcher to a charming collector's item.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I quickly cure chapped hands?

A.—By rubbing into them, after washing, cornmeal or oatmeal. It absorbs the mixture and tends to heal the cracks in your skin. In the course of a week your hands will be soft and in good condition again.

Q.—How can I drive a nail into a wall without crumbling the plaster?

A.—By dipping the nail in hot water or melted paraffin. Or, put crisscross cellophane tape over the spot before hammering the nail in at the intersection of the tape.

Q.—Any tips for the person who wishes to make her own biscuits without using a prepared mix?

A.—You can do the following in order to have your biscuits lighter: (1) Put the correct amount of fresh baking powder into the proportion of milk called for in your recipe. Stir and beat until the mixture froths and tumbles out of the mixing bowl or cup into the remainder of your ingredients. (2) Drop your batter onto the baking sheet instead of rolling and shaping.

Q.—How can I move a refrigerator more easily in order to clean behind it?

A.—Soap the floor or linoleum in front of the refrigerator until it is very slippery. Then the heavy unit will glide easily and you will not have to call for help.

Off-Season Heating Tips

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Furnaces and boilers suffer corrosion and break down more often during the off-season than when they are being used.

Dust and soot combine with moisture to do the damage. Soot and moisture form sulphuric acid which eats away the metal. You're probably thinking about your furnace now, while it's in use, so why not clip this column and save it for shutting-down time?

The first rule in shutting down the furnace for the warm weather months is to give it a thorough cleaning. Use a brush to loosen the dirt, a vacuum to remove it.

Once clean, coat all the inside surfaces with oil. Any lubricating oil or crankcase draining can be used for this. An efficient way to apply it is with an insect spray.

—:—

GALVANIZED smoke pipe is especially susceptible. Clean thoroughly and coat with plenty of oil. If it is possible to do so, take down the pipe; clean, oil and store in a dry place wrapped in newspapers.

If the smoke pipe must be left up, there will be air circulating through the furnace from the chimney. This air is damp and can do damage. Furnace doors should be left slightly ajar and hinges and joints kept well-oiled.

If you have a coal furnace, remove the grates and clean. Coat with plenty of oil. It will burn off the first time the furnace is used.

Boilers should be given the same treatment. Clean exposed surfaces and coat with oil. Lubricate moving parts.

Boilers, whether for steam or hot water heat, should not be drained at the end of the season. There is no virtue in filling a boiler tank with fresh water, only harm.

The water that has been heated again and again has no oxygen left in it, hence will not corrode metal. Fresh water, loaded with air, will rust all metal that it touches.

Do, however, add just enough fresh water to keep the boiler filled to the top. In hot - water systems, all pipes and radiators should be kept filled.

Sediment that collects, especially when fresh water is added, falls to the bottom of the tank and remains there to harden unless drained off regularly. Do this throughout the heating season.

—:—

IF YOU should have to refill with fresh water, heat almost to the boiling point to get rid of air in the water.

If you fire your furnace with oil, this is the time to have the tank filled.

Not only will you be ready for winter, you will protect exposed inner surfaces of the tank. Scale is likely to form here, later settling to the bottom of tank and clogging the fuel line.

With gas furnaces, it is best to leave the pilot light burning all summer. The small amount of heat is not noticeable, but it is enough to keep surfaces dry. The cost is small and you will be saved the trouble of relighting the pilot next fall.

Take the precaution, though, of making certain the furnace doesn't go on if there is a slight drop in temperature. Set the thermostat quite low, 50 degrees or so.

You can be absolutely certain, if you wish, by cutting off the power in the electrically operated automatic system either by pulling the switch or removing the fuse on the power line to the furnace.

Steel's Output Continues At Strong Pace

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cutbacks in the production of automobiles and appliances have not kept steel consumption from continuing at a near record pace, Steel Magazine reported today.

The weekly journal of metalworking said most other markets are as strong as they were early last year, the exceptions being rail transportation and residential housing.

"But prospects for residental construction are improving," the magazine added. "Housing starts edged upward in December for the second consecutive month."

The publication said some steelmakers believe an easing in consumer credit will result in housing starts and appliance sales equalling last year's levels.

Steel also said prospects for industrial construction are bright and that backlogs of structural fabricators are the highest in years. The backlogs are nearly 50 per cent larger than those in early 1964, it added.

"Automakers and appliance manufactures continue to buy steel cautiously despite relatively low inventories," the magazine continued. "They're concerned about big stocks of finished goods. By Jan. 31, auto dealers will have a 61-day supply of new cars in their lots and showrooms compared with a 51-day stock a year ago."

Industry estimates of first quarter steel shipments reflect varying degrees of optimism, Steel said. It pointed out that mills which boost a good balance between light and heavy products look for shipments to match those in the first three months of last year.

"Mills that are highly oriented toward sheets and the markets that consume them predict deliveries of about 21.1 million tons compared with 21.6 million in the same 1966 quarter. Those that have big stakes in the capital goods and construction markets forecast shipments as high as 22.3 million tons."

Steel production made its third straight weekly gain last week with the output estimated at 2,485,000 net tons, an increase of 35,000 tons over the previous week, the magazine said.

Buying of scrap was light last week, but Steel's composite price on No. 1 heavy melting material was unchanged at $27.67 a goss ton.

Suggestions Are Offered For Proper Use Of Stain

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Lumber cut from different trees of the same variety may vary somewhat in color. Stain equalizes these variations.

Some woods have certain desirable characteristics, but not a preferred color. Stain takes care of that lack. Other woods, pleasant in appearance, seem to have no individuality. Stain creates it.

These are just some of the purposes of stain. But whatever your reason for using it, never neglect the first and most important principle in the attainment of a satisfactory result: experiment first to get the proper shade.

IF YOU make a piece of furniture, save a few bits of scrap wood to perform the test.

If you buy unfinished furniture, try out the stain in an inconspicuous place (such as the underside of a table). If you have taken off the old finish from a cabinet or anything else, be sure to remove it, also, from a portion of the item which won't be seen, so you'll have a place for testing.

Why is this testing so important? Because the proper shade is produced mainly by the length of time that elapses between the application and the wipe-off.

And if you don't establish how long this period should be, you are unlikely to get the tone you want. Thus, if you want a very light shade of the color you have chosen, apply the stain, wait 10 seconds and wipe it off with a clean, lintless cloth. A medium shade, wait 30 seconds. A dark shade, wait 10 minutes. And so on, using any time periods you wish.

Remember that whatever danger there is lies in leaving the stain on too long rather than too little.

PERHAPS the best place to make all tests is on a single piece of scrap wood or portion of furniture, so that each stained area can be compared with the one immediately next to it.

Thus, you can stain a few inches of the wood one shade, making a pencil mark to show what the waiting period was. Stain the area next to it and make a second notation. Do it a third and fourth time, if necessary. Before making a decision, wait until the stain is reasonably dry.

You can then tell which shade suits you best and how long there was between the application and the wipe-off.

Two other points: if you cannot seem to produce the kind of light shade you want, try cutting the stain with turpentine. And always remember that the stain will appear a bit darker after the sealer and final coat have been applied. It is always wise, therefore, to have the shade a little lighter than you want it to be.

Three Sky Divers Claimed In Crash

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (AP) — What was to be an afternoon of sky diving ended in death Sunday for three Fayette County men whose small plane plunged to earth in a field near Uniontown.

"Everything was normal. The takeoff was normal. The flight pattern was normal. Then he went into a spin," recounted Paul Skala, 43, after seeing his younger brother die in the crash.

Killed were Andrew Skala, 36, of McClellandtown Rt.1, the pilot; Robert Hustead, 23, of Amend and Joseph R. Hrebenar, 23, of Shoaf.

Skala said his brother had been flying for five years and owned the single-engine Cessna four months.

Some 40 persons witnessed the crash. Kenneth Early of Uniontown Rt. 3 said the plane had taken off from Skala's private landing strip about 10 miles south of Uniontown moments before the tragedy.

Art Wall's 65 and 64 for 129 was the best 36-hole score during the 1966 PGA golf tour. He shot the rounds in winning the Insurance City Open last summer.

Advisers Insisted It Be Tossed Out

Part Of Kennedy Book Pictured LBJ As Violent

NEW YORK (AP)—The first chapter of the book, "The Death of a President," was tossed out at the insistence of advisers to the Kennedy family because it pictured President Johnson as "a man of violence," a source close to the family said today.

The source made the statement as the controversy over the book about the assassination of President John F. Kennedy flared anew after author William Manchester charged that Sen. Robert F. Kennedy wanted to "shred and emasculate" the book simply for political reasons.

Manchester was not immediately available for comment on the countercharge made by the source close to the Kennedy family. The author was reported on an extended vacation at an undisclosed location.

The Kennedy source said: "The whole first chapter was a deer hunting scene in Texas. It showed Johnson as a man of violence who loved to kill deer and would force others to do the same.

"It seemed to set symbolic overtones which were unjust and inaccurate. It seemed an attempt to make this (the chapter) the symbolic framework for the whole book, which was unjust and disastrous.

"It had nothing to do with the assassination since it occurred three years before the assassination, right after the election of President Kennedy. It pictured President Kennedy as a man reluctant to do this (kill deer), a much more gentle figure."

President Kennedy and Johnson went hunting on the LBJ Ranch on Nov. 17, 1960, the period after the election and prior to the inauguration. It was Kennedy's first deer hunt and he shot two bucks. The two had met at the LBJ Ranch for a post election discussion of various problems facing their administration.

It was learned that the Kennedy family and other persons close to the family felt so strongly about other passages that Manchester refused to discard that they insisted their names be deleted from the author's list of acknowledgments of persons he had contacted for vital information. This was done.

Manchester's views on the controversy came in a series of interviews with the New York Times at his home in Middletown, Conn., and with Newsweek magazine, prior to his leaving on vacation. The Times' interviews were published in today's editions. The Newsweek interview will appear in the Jan. 30 issue.

Manchester said Sen. Robert Kennedy "is surrounded by people who have hitched their wagon to his star."

"They all think in terms of another Kennedy administration," he said.

Manchester did not speculate on precisely how his book might affect Sen. Robert Kennedy. He denied that it was a diatribe against President Johnson.

He said that Theodore C. Sorensen, one of the Kennedy advisers, had advised Sen. Kennedy to file suit to block publication of the book because of his (Sen. Kennedy's) own political future. Manchester said he was told this by Sen. Kennedy.

"It all finally comes down to the fact that Mr. Manchester gave his word and then broke it," Sen. Kennedy said. "No statement or interview, or description of events, however dramatic, can alter that plain fact."

Manchester said he had no problems with the Kennedys until they learned Look magazine was paying him $665,000 for the serialization rights.

He said that when Sen. Kennedy told Mrs. John F. Kennedy, then vacationing at Hyannis Port, Mass., about the payments she "was concerned over the sum of money and what she felt was commercialization."

Manchester said that his agent predicted that his own share might be "in the area of $1.5 million." After taxes and legal expenses, Manchester said, "I may come out with something in the range of $500,000."

Richard Goodwin, an aide to the late president and Mrs. Kennedy's top adviser on the book, issued a statement in San Francisco Sunday night.

He said: "Mr. Manchester's account bears no relationship to the actual course of discussion and controversy surrounding his book. Reading it, one is struck by the enormous difficulty of answering statements made in complete disregard of the truth."

Goodwin said that when Manchester delivered his manuscript in March 1965, "The publishers wrote representatives of the Kennedy family that the book is 'in part tasteless and gratuitously insulting to President Johnson and, for that matter, to the memory of the late President Kennedy.'"

Goodwin's statement continued: "Mr. Manchester, the publishers wrote, had turned 'the tragedy into a magic fairy tale.'

"In an effort to make the book both accurate and fair, to remove the sometimes horrifying and unjust implications about several individuals, the publishers and representatives of the Kennedy family recommended many changes. As a result, almost one third of the book was modified."

Author Tells Of 5 Terrible Seconds In Kennedy Book

NEW YORK (AP) — "Five terrible seconds" may have spelled the difference between life or death for President John F. Kennedy after he was first wounded, William Manchester suggests in his book, "The Death of a President."

This is the estimated elapsed time between the first and second bullets that struck Kennedy.

Referring to the Secret Service agents riding in the front seat of the presidential car in that awful moment, Manchester wrote:

"They were in a position to take evasive action after the first shot, but for five terrible seconds, they were immobilized."

The first bullet, piercing Kennedy's neck and throat, was not fatal, the author wrote. But the second inflicted a massive wound on the right side of his skull, sealing his fate.

The second installment of Look magazine's four-part serialization of Manchester's book, due on the newsstands Wednesday, relates the events of the day of the assassination, Nov. 22, 1963.

When the first shot cracked, Manchester wrote, "the White House detail was confused." Agents thought the sound came from a firecracker, or a police motorcycle backfire.

Agent Roy Kellerman, in the front seat, thought he heard the President say, "My God, I'm hit," and turned to look at him. Agent William R. Greer, the driver, also glanced backward.

"Neither had yet reacted to the crisis," Manchester wrote.

Kennedy was clutching his throat but he was not grimacing. Manchester described his expression as "quizzical." Mrs. Kennedy had often seen that expression. Like the others in the car, she seemed unaware that her husband had been wounded.

Then the second bullet struck him. Manchester wrote —

"Now in a gesture of infinite grace, he raised his right hand as though to brush back his tousled chestnut hair. But the motion faltered. The hand fell back limply. He had been reaching for the top of his head. But it wasn't there any more."

At about that same instant, Agent Rufus Youngblood vaulted into the rear seat of Vice President Johnson's car, snapped, "get down," and covered Johnson's body with his own.

The lead cars in the motorcade, accelerating powerfully, then raced toward Parkland Hospital in Dallas, where, Manchester wrote, they were to find confusion compounded.

In this section of his book, Manchester leaves no doubt that he believes Lee Harvey Oswald killed Kennedy and had no accomplices in any organized conspiracy.

The author thus agrees with the findings of the Warren commission. It says Oswald acted alone.

Critics of the Warren report, however, have advanced the theory in numerous books — some of them lucrative — that the bullets came from two directions, not just the Texas School Book Depository Building, where Oswald worked.

Tiger On Road Free To Make Park A Home

CUTTACK, India (AP) — Gov. A. N. Khosla of India's eastern Orissa State was returning from the inauguration of a large open-air tiger enclosure at Nandan Kanan wildlife park when his party encountered a tiger on the road.

Thinking a tiger just released in the enclosure had escaped, Khosla's party notified park officials. But it was quickly determined that the tiger on the highway was another visitor to the park. It was just as quickly decided that he would be left free to make the park his home, if he wanted.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The Antonio Stradivari method of making fine violins remains something of a secret. The perfection of these famed instruments was probably due in part to the superb quality of wood and varnish used in construction. So perfect were the violins of the 16th and 17th century with their smooth texture, soft orange to red color and excellent tonal quality, that modern makers have not been able to equal them, in the opinion of most experts.

6 Are Killed, 31 Hurt When Car, Bus Hit

EFFINGHAM, Ill. (AP)—Six persons were killed and 31 others were injured Sunday night in the collision of a car and a chartered bus which was returning a Belleville family from a wedding in Dayton, Ohio.

"It was an awful sight. There were bodies everywhere," said Zona Davis who, with her husband, Plaford, happened on the crash scene moments after it occurred at the intersection of U. S. 45 and Interstate 70 outside Effingham.

All five persons in the car and a passenger in the bus died.

"The bus was almost cut in half and the car looked like a convertible—it's top was sheared off," said Mrs. Davis, who is news director of radio station WCRA in Effingham.

Killed in the car were Danny L. Wade, 17, of Effingham, the driver; Carl Miller, 20, of Montrose; John Yocum, 25 and Ronald A. Liss, 22, both of Effingham; and Rita Headlee, 17, of Wheeler. The bus passenger who was killed was Charles A. Vernier, 69, of Belleville.

The auto burst into flame as the injured were being removed from the pavement.

The 30 passengers and the driver of the bus, Wilmer Agles, 41, of Belleville, were taken to St. Anthony's Hospital in Effingham. A spokesman said 17 were admitted.

The chartered bus was returning family and friends from the wedding Saturday in Dayton of the dead passenger's nephew, Roger Vernier, 23, and Mary Gougarty, 21.

Charleston Takes Lead In W.Va. Poll

By The Associated Press

Charleston has finally replaced Richwood as the number one high school basketball team in the state in this week's Associated Press poll of sportswriters, but it's still a three-team race.

The Mountain Lions, runners-up to Richwood the past two weeks, finally slipped in front by one point, 87-86. And third-place Williamson is only two-points out of first, with 85 points.

All three teams received three first place votes.

Beckley maintained its fourth-place rating while St. Albans, beaten for the second time this season by Charleston, slipped from fifth to seventh.

Taking over the fifth spot, and making its first appearance of the season in the ratings is Parkersburg with 30 points, two ahead of another newcomer, Wheeling. Wheeling also received a first - place vote.

Behind St. Albans is Madison Scott, which moved up to eighth and Keyser, ranked ninth. Only ten points separate Parkersburg in the No. 5 spot and ninth-place Keyser which has 20.

Elkins slipped from seventh last week to tenth in this week's poll.

Premier Of India Beautifying Airports

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi has embarked on her own modest campaign to beautify India.

Her first target is the nation's airports, which she wants decorated with Indian tapestries, furniture and handicrafts to impress foreign visitors.

She also wants precautions taken to insure that any new buildings in the country do not block the view or distract from the decor of India's many historical sites and monuments.

She has been studying blueprints of proposed new structures near various monuments and has stopped construction in some cases, according to local press reports.

AP, Dow Jones Reveal New Venture In News

NEW YORK (AP)—A major new venture in the international collection and distribution of economic news was announced today by The Associated Press and Dow Jones & Company, Inc.

The two organizations have signed a contract providing for formation of AP-Dow Jones Economic Report, a business and financial overseas news service that will make use of their respective resources throughout the world. The service will go into operation April 1, transmitting 24 hours daily on newly established land, cable and radio- teletype communications circuits to countries outside the United States and Canada.

William F. Kerby, president of Dow Jones, and Wes Gallagher, general manager of AP, said in a joint statement that "AP-Dow Jones Economic Report is specially designed to serve the rapidly growing worldwide demand for comprehensive and authoritative economic news—reported and written knowledgeably for a sophisticated audience."

The news report will be written, edited and transmitted by a special staff, but will also have access to the news reporting of some 4,000 full-time staff members already stationed in 104 countries. The stories reported for the new service by its own staff will thus be supplemented by material developed by the existing global staff of The AP, since 1848 the world's largest news agency, and by the staffs of the publications produced by Dow Jones, since 1882 the leading economic news-gathering organization in the United States and Canada.

Dow Jones publishes The Wall Street Journal, Barron's Business and Financial Weekly, and The National Observer, and operates two business news wire services, the Dow Jones News Services in the United States and Canada.

Kerby and Gallagher said AP-Dow Jones Economic Report will be delivered by private teletype to individual subscribers, such as bankers, brokers, industrialists, traders and other businessmen, as well as to newspapers and news agencies.

The new service, they said, will emphasize "'enterprising, deep-digging reporting. It will give businessmen immediate facts on news developments and economic trends affecting their business and their markets. But it will also go beyond today's developments and analyze their meaning and potential impact tomorrow."

Aside from carrying daily stock and commodity market quotations from the world's business centers, AP-Dow Jones Economic Report will cover and analyze the changing trends in national economies and major industries throughout the world. Industry and corporate coverage will include reports on domestic and export marketing plans, price policy, new products and processes and earnings prospects. The development of new government trade, fiscal and monetary policies will be covered, as well as specific actions in the economic field. Other areas of coverage will range from finance and commodities to new management techniques.

"The emphasis," the announcement said, "will be on useful news—news that will equip businessmen with the information to make sounder, prompter decisions and to grasp opportunities quickly in today's increasingly competitive business climate.

"The service also will enable businessmen to keep their own customers and potential customers better informed of developments of interest to them. And it will enable business concerns to have the service delivered to branch plants, ending the feeling of isolation and inadequate information that often trouble operations scattered far from headquarters."

"This news report will provide the economic intelligence needed by the modern, profit-minded businessman who wants to run his enterprise more competitively and efficiently," they said.

'No Puppet Of U.S.,' Premier Ky Declares

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand (AP) — Despite a brief flash of temper at an airport news conference, South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky charmed his way through his first meeting with New Zealanders today.

Ky flushed with anger when a newsman asked for comment on a statement by Sen. J. William Fulbright, D.-Ark., that if Ky did not negotiate with the Viet Cong, he should be replaced.

"I am no puppet of the United States or anyone else," Ky said, his voice trembling. "That is my answer to Mr. Fulbright. He is a colonialist."

Ky went on to deftly field a barrage of questions about his current hero, a reference to a past statement that he admired Hitler. Ky replied that his heroes were "all the men fighting in my country."

After the news conference, Ky plunged into a waiting airport crowd of about 700 persons mainly women and children. Outside the airport about 150 orderly demonstrators stood waving placards which said "Ky not welcome here," "Aid not war" and "We condemn bombing of Hanoi and Haiphong."

After being welcomed at the Town Hall by Mayor G. M. Manning, Ky moved across the old city square to his hotel and was greeted by another crowd.

Ky is scheduled to fly Tuesday to Wellington, the capital city of New Zealand Cabinet. In the afternoon he will fly on to Auckland, the largest city in New Zealand, where a large anti-Ky demonstration is expected.

Ky will visit a dairy farm at Hamilton, 100 miles from Auckland on Wednesday before flying back to Saigon.

Pennsylvania Senate Group Sifts White Reappointment

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shafer's reappointment of Adj. Gen. Thomas R. White Jr. was being scrutinized today by the Senate Executive Nominations Committee.

The bipartisan committee, meeting behind closed doors, had invited eight former Pennsylvania National Guard officers who oppose White's cabinet nomination to appear.

Senate minority Democrats have declined to furnish the seven votes needed to confirm the cabinet appointments of White and David O. Maxwell, selected by Shafer to be the insurance commissioner.

Maxwell has been invited to appear before the Senate Democratic Caucus Tuesday.

Senate Majority Leader Stanley G. Stroup said he was hopeful the Senate would confirm Maxwell and White before the week was out.

Meanwhile, House Republicans, who rule that chamber, were preparing to introduce a resolution paving the way toward a code of ethics for the legislature.

"I think the idea will be introduced today," Majority Leader Lee A. Donaldson Jr. said Sunday night. "It will not be specific, it will be a general proposal."

However, Donaldson, R-Allegheny, indicated the proposal would include, among others, these areas: Conflict of interest, disclosure of financial holdings and stricter regulation of lobbyists.

The resolution would set up a five-member committee to study the idea of an ethics code. It would consist of three Republicans and two Democrats.

House Minority Leader Herbert Fineman said House Democrats would support a proposal to establish a legislative code of ethics.

"We would support any such action," Fineman, D-Philadelphia, said. "Such proposals are contained in the Democratic platform. This is in keeping with our viewpoint."

The House and Senate both returned at 3 p.m., EST, today, the beginning of a busy week on Capitol Hill.

On Tuesday Shafer makes his first appearance as governor before a joint session of the general assembly.

His aides said the governor would discuss welfare, modernization of state government, conservation and transportation in his 25-minute talk. It will be carried live on radio and television.

The House, meanwhile, was set to take its turn on eight proposed constitutional amendments which cleared the Senate last week.

The measures passed the legislature for the first time last year and would go on the ballot in May if passed this time. That timetable is expected to be adhered to.

Seven of the bills would amend the constitution, article-by-article, while the eighth measure would establish a $500 million conservation fund.

Part Of Kennedy Book Pictured LBJ As Violent

NEW YORK (AP)—The first chapter of the book, "The Death of a President," was tossed out at the insistence of advisers to the Kennedy family because it pictured President Johnson as "a man of violence," a source close to the family said today.

The source made the statement as the controversy over the book about the assassination of President John F. Kennedy flared anew after author William Manchester charged that Sen. Robert F. Kennedy wanted to "shred and emasculate" the book simply for political reasons.

Manchester was not immediately available for comment on the countercharge made by the source close to the Kennedy family. The author was reported on an extended vacation at an undisclosed location.

The Kennedy source said: "The whole first chapter was a deer hunting scene in Texas. It showed Johnson as a man of violence who loved to kill deer and would force others to do the same.

"It seemed to set symbolic overtones which were unjust and inaccurate. It seemed an attempt to make this (the chapter) the symbolic framework for the whole book, which was unjust and disastrous.

"It had nothing to do with the assassination since it occurred three years before the assassination, right after the election of President Kennedy. It pictured President Kennedy as a man reluctant to do this (kill deer), a much more gentle figure."

President Kennedy and Johnson went hunting on the LBJ Ranch on Nov. 17, 1960, the period after the election and prior to the inauguration. It was Kennedy's first deer hunt and he shot two bucks. The two had met at the LBJ Ranch for a post election discussion of various problems facing their administration.

It was learned that the Kennedy family and other persons close to the family felt so strongly about other passages that Manchester refused to discard that they insisted their names be deleted from the author's list of acknowledgments of persons he had contacted for vital information. This was done.

Manchester's views on the controversy came in a series of interviews with the New York Times at his home in Middletown, Conn., and with Newsweek magazine, prior to his leaving on vacation. The Times' interviews were published in today's editions. The Newsweek interview will appear in the Jan. 30 issue.

Manchester said Sen. Robert Kennedy "is surrounded by people who have hitched their wagon to his star."

"They all think in terms of another Kennedy administration," he said.

Manchester did not speculate on precisely how his book might affect Sen. Robert Kennedy. He denied that it was a diatribe against President Johnson.

He said that Theodore C. Sorensen, one of the Kennedy advisers, had advised Sen. Kennedy to file suit to block publication of the book because of his (Sen. Kennedy's) own political future. Manchester said he was told this by Sen. Kennedy.

"It all finally comes down to the fact that Mr. Manchester gave his word and then broke it," Sen. Kennedy said. "No statement or interview, or description of events, however dramatic, can alter that plain fact."

Manchester said he had no problems with the Kennedys until they learned Look magazine was paying him $665,000 for the serialization rights.

He said that when Sen. Kennedy told Mrs. John F. Kennedy, then vacationing at Hyannis Port, Mass., about the payments she "was concerned over the sum of money and what she felt was commercialization."

Manchester said that his agent predicted that his own share might be "in the area of $1.5 million." After taxes and legal expenses, Manchester said, "I may come out with something in the range of $500,000."

Richard Goodwin, an aide to the late president and Mrs. Kennedy's top adviser on the book, issued a statement in San Francisco Sunday night.

He said: "Mr. Manchester's account bears no relationship to the actual course of discussion and controversy surrounding his book. Reading it, one is struck by the enormous difficulty of answering statements made in complete disregard of the truth."

Goodwin said that when Manchester delivered his manuscript in March 1965, "The publishers wrote representatives of the Kennedy family that the book is 'in part tasteless and gratuitously insulting to President Johnson and, for that matter, to the memory of the late President Kennedy.'"

Goodwin's statement continued: "Mr. Manchester, the publishers wrote, had turned 'the tragedy into a magic fairy tale.'

"In an effort to make the book both accurate and fair, to remove the sometimes horrifying and unjust implications about several individuals, the publishers and representatives of the Kennedy family recommended many changes. As a result, almost one third of the book was modified."

Author Tells Of 5 Terrible Seconds In Kennedy Book

NEW YORK (AP) — "Five terrible seconds" may have spelled the difference between life or death for President John F. Kennedy after he was first wounded, William Manchester suggests in his book, "The Death of a President."

This is the estimated elapsed time between the first and second bullets that struck Kennedy.

Referring to the Secret Service agents riding in the front seat of the presidential car in that awful moment, Manchester wrote:

"They were in a position to take evasive action after the first shot, but for five terrible seconds, they were immobilized."

The first bullet, piercing Kennedy's neck and throat, was not fatal, the author wrote. But the second inflicted a massive wound on the right side of his skull, sealing his fate.

The second installment of Look magazine's four-part serialization of Manchester's book, due on the newsstands Wednesday, relates the events of the day of the assassination, Nov. 22, 1963.

When the first shot cracked, Manchester wrote, "the White House detail was confused." Agents thought the sound came from a firecracker, or a police motorcycle backfire.

Agent Roy Kellerman, in the front seat, thought he heard the President say, "My God, I'm hit," and turned to look at him. Agent William R. Greer, the driver, also glanced backward.

"Neither had yet reacted to the crisis," Manchester wrote.

Kennedy was clutching his throat but he was not grimacing. Manchester described his expression as "quizzical." Mrs. Kennedy had often seen that expression. Like the others in the car, she seemed unaware that her husband had been wounded.

Then the second bullet struck him. Manchester wrote —

"Now in a gesture of infinite grace, he raised his right hand as though to brush back his tousled chestnut hair. But the motion faltered. The hand fell back limply. He had been reaching for the top of his head. But it wasn't there any more."

At about that same instant, Agent Rufus Youngblood vaulted into the rear seat of Vice President Johnson's car, snapped, "get down," and covered Johnson's body with his own.

The lead cars in the motorcade, accelerating powerfully, then raced toward Parkland Hospital in Dallas, where, Manchester wrote, they were to find confusion compounded.

In this section of his book, Manchester leaves no doubt that he believes Lee Harvey Oswald killed Kennedy and had no accomplices in any organized conspiracy.

The author thus agrees with the findings of the Warren commission. It says Oswald acted alone.

Critics of the Warren report, however, have advanced the theory in numerous books — some of them lucrative — that the bullets came from two directions, not just the Texas School Book Depository Building, where Oswald worked.

Tiger On Road Free To Make Park A Home

CUTTACK, India (AP — Gov. A. N. Khosla of India's eastern Orissa State was returning from the inauguration of a large open-air tiger enclosure at Nandan Kanan wildlife park when his party encountered a tiger on the road.

Thinking a tiger just released in the enclosure had escaped, Khosla's party notified park officials. But it was quickly determined that the tiger on the highway was another visitor to the park. It was just as quickly decided that he would be left free to make the park his home, if he wanted.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The Antonio Stradivari method of making fine violins remains something of a secret. The perfection of these famed instruments was probably due in part to the superb quality of wood and varnish used in construction. So perfect were the violins of the 16th and 17th century with their smooth texture, soft orange to red color and excellent tonal quality, that modern makers have not been able to equal them, in the opinion of most experts.

6 Are Killed, 31 Hurt When Car, Bus Hit

EFFINGHAM, Ill. (AP)—Six persons were killed and 31 others were injured Sunday night in the collision of a car and a chartered bus which was returning a Belleville family from a wedding in Dayton, Ohio.

"It was an awful sight. There were bodies everywhere," said Zona Davis who, with her husband, Plaford, happened on the crash scene moments after it occurred at the intersection of U. S. 45 and Interstate 70 outside Effingham.

All five persons in the car and a passenger in the bus died.

"The bus was almost cut in half and the car looked like a convertible—it's top was sheared off," said Mrs. Davis, who is news director of radio station WCRA in Effingham.

Killed in the car were Danny L. Wade, 17, of Effingham, the driver; Carl Miller, 20, of Montrose; John Yocum, 25 and Ronald A. Liss, 22, both of Effingham; and Rita Headlee, 17, of Wheeler. The bus passenger who was killed was Charles A. Vernier, 69, of Belleville.

The auto burst into flame as the injured were being removed from the pavement.

The 30 passengers and the driver of the bus, Wilmer Agles, 41, of Belleville, were taken to St. Anthony's Hospital in Effingham. A spokesman said 17 were admitted.

The chartered bus was returning family and friends from the wedding Saturday in Dayton of the dead passenger's nephew, Roger Vernier, 23, and Mary Gougarty, 21.

Charleston Takes Lead In W.Va. Poll

By The Associated Press

Charleston has finally replaced Richwood as the number one high school basketball team in the state in this week's Associated Press poll of sportswriters, but it's still a three-team race.

The Mountain Lions, runners-up to Richwood the past two weeks, finally slipped in front by one point, 87-86. And third-place Williamson is only two-points out of first, with 85 points.

All three teams received three first place votes.

Beckley maintained its fourth-place rating while St. Albans, beaten for the second time this season by Charleston, slipped from fifth to seventh.

Taking over the fifth spot, and making its first appearance of the season in the ratings is Parkersburg with 30 points, two ahead of another newcomer, Wheeling. Wheeling also received a first - place vote.

Behind St. Albans is Madison Scott, which moved up to eighth and Keyser, ranked ninth. Only ten points separate Parkersburg in the No. 5 spot and ninth-place Keyser which has 20.

Elkins slipped from seventh last week to tenth in this week's poll.

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi has embarked on her own modest campaign to beautify India.

Her first target is the nation's airports, which she wants decorated with Indian tapestries, furniture and handicrafts to impress foreign visitors.

She also wants precautions taken to insure that any new buildings in the country do not block the view or distract from the decor of India's many historical sites and monuments.

She has been studying blueprints of proposed new structures near various monuments and has stopped construction in some cases, according to local press reports.

The service will go into operation April 1, transmitting 24 hours daily on newly established land, cable and radio- teletype communications circuits to countries outside the United States and Canada.

William F. Dow Jones publishes The Wall Street Journal, Barron's Business and Financial Weekly, and The National Observer, and operates two business news wire services, the Dow Jones News Services in the United States and Canada.

Kerby and Gallagher said AP-Dow Jones Economic Report will be delivered by private teletype to individual subscribers, such as bankers, brokers, industrialists, traders and other businessmen, as well as to newspapers and news agencies.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Folks: Oh my, let me tell you what I learned recently about ironing drip-drys . . . you know, that's some of the stuff that you're not supposed to have to iron.

When you can't get a wrinkle out of a drip-dry, try putting a folded bath towel or two over your ironing board, and then iron away!

This is the greatest!

The towel makes a cushion which a manmade fabric seems to need. When pressing "lons" on a silicone cover sometimes we just can't get the wrinkles out. So try the towel method next time. You'll be surprised how easy it is.

I recommend using a white bath towel because the dye from colored towels might come through and stain your lovely clothing.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I needed a gift card recently so I cut an inch piece from the top of some folded note paper that had very pretty flowers on it.

This gave me a lovely little gift card with room to write a personal message.

G. M. RUDDOCK.

-:-

DEAR HELOISE: When baking a chocolate cake, I dust my cake tins with cocoa rather than flour to make a more-chocolate-looking cake.

MRS. GEORGE DUNGAN.

DEAR HELOISE: As a first grade teacher, I try to keep children busy while helping them grow in ability.

One activity I used last year was simple and would be good for mothers . . . as children like to do things at home.

I made colorful beads from tiny, cut macaroni by dipping the macaroni in a mixture of food color and water.

Then I drained the macaroni on newspaper until completely dry and put it into small jars.

At school the children strung the macaroni on pre-cut lengths of lightweight string, the ends of which I made stiff by dipping them in glue and letting dry overnight.

Larger macaroni can be used for smaller fingers.

DEAR SANDRA: You certainly are a dedicated teacher! We parents really appreciate what you and the thousands of teachers like you are doing for our children.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: White gym shoes are the hardest thing in the world to keep clean. If you want to keep them spotless, it's necessary to wash them every night.

If you make it a habit to carry a small piece of white chalk in your purse and use it on those little spots, you can usually get by with washing them only once a week.

A TEEN.

-:-

DEAR HELOISE: I have a big round table that needed a pad. I took two plastic table clothes and put them together back to back with the felt on the outside. I then cut it to fit the table. This may be stitched or tacked together.

No spills go through. It is reversible and washes, too.

LOVING GRANDMA.

DEAR HELOISE: The following trick is not a timesaver, but a "wallsaver": Under a wide window in our kitchen eating area, I tacked up a flat, metal curtain rod (painted the color of the wall). When the current crop of art arrives from school, I hang the paintings on the rod with tiny magnets.

This has been so successful that our 8-year-old has one under his bedroom window for trophies, ribbons and other lightweight mementos.

MOMMY.

DEAR HELOISE: Here is an idea to keep block or brick cheese from getting hard: Spread some butter or margarine on the cut side of the cheese, wrap in foil or wax paper and put in the refrigerator.

No dried out cheese next time.

The Woman In The Mirror

"Will you please write more about will power. I read your column and get all pepped up about reducing. Then my will power wilts back into overeating and having consoling sweets and snacks.

"An actress claims to have lost weight by looking in a mirror and repeating over and over again that she did not like sweets and that she would not overeat. Will this help?" a reader asks wistfully.

Ida Jean Kain

Yes, provided you put your mind to it and back the plan with purposeful action. You might find it an exciting way to get on with slimming.

—:—

HOWEVER, consistency of purpose is de rigueur. It is so easy to set up objectives on a pleasant day - dreamy level. You see it in terms of what you intend to do by and by, which is merely a way of putting off the day of action. She uses the repetitio method to keep her goal ividly in mind.

An actress cannot indulge in such wishful thinking, for her career is at stake. If she doesn't watch her figure, nobody else will. Her instructions to the image in the mirror are so firm they add up to a command performance, to be followed through with disciplined action. She uses the repetition method to keep her goal vividly in mind.

Will power is linked with willingness. Reducing is a mental achievement. You have to think, talk and act in the direction you want to go.

How do you get your thinking on the right track? Examine your attitudes. Your attitude toward the project is more important than the number of pounds you need to lose. Why? Because some grudging attitude can keep you from taking action. To catch on to the hindering attitudes, be alerted to the justifications you make to yourself for not changing your ways of eating. Watch your inner "talking."

It helps enormously to objectify your attitudes, then you can deal with them with some measure of detachment. The whole purpose of this is to develop an awareness. Enlightened, you will be in an excellent position to give yourself instructions.

IT'S A great day when you decide to take charge of your life. With this resolve you harness your will to a pictured goal. Then you can look in the mirror and say to yourself with conviction, "I am eager to slim down and shape up. My happiness isn't in eating sweets. I want to be slim and feel young again!"

The power of a confident attitude approximates magic. You know you can do it!

Baker Resumes Defense Against Two Of Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bobby Baker resumes his witness chair defense today against charges of tax evasion and larceny of $80,000 in campaign contributions.

His chief lawyer, Edward Bennett Williams, is expected to wind up quickly his questioning in U.S. District Court of the former secretary to Senate Democrats.

Then it's up to Justice Department prosecutor William O. Bittman to try in cross-examination to shake Baker's story that he collected nearly $100,000 in campaign contributions from California savings and loan executives in late 1962 but turned the money over, as he was supposed to do, to the late Sen. Robert S. Kerr.

The California financiers earlier in the two-week-old trial testified the funds were intended for distribution to members of Congress. Kerr, an Oklahoma Democrat and oil-gas millionaire, died Jan. 1, 1963. Williams says a large part of the cash was found in Kerr's Washington safe deposit box.

The government charges Baker kept about $80,000 for his own uses, including financing of his hard-pressed Carousel Motel at Ocean City, Md.

Baker contends he overpaid his income taxes for 1961 and 1962.

3 GOP Committeemen Set 'Flexibility' Slogan

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Three Republican national committeemen came up today with a "flexibility" slogan to describe the general attitude of state party leaders toward the 1968 GOP presidential nomination.

As the national committee begins its formal sessions, the feeling of most state committeemen and chairmen is that it still is too early to settle on the man most of them now think has a good chance to beat President Johnson next year.

With their eyes on the third party threat of former Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, Southern state representatives bore down on the theme of keeping their delegations flexible until they can see more clearly which Republican appears to be the strongest choice for GOP standard bearer.

Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas, also a committeeman, indicated he thinks Republicans would be stupid to overlook the qualifications of his brother, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. But he said he is waiting to see what happens in the next few months.

The Arkansas governor said shortly before the committee began its formal closed sessions that he probably will be a favorite son candidate in 1968. But he said he wants to decide which potential nominee is likely to win before he deposits his state's 18 convention votes.

George L. Hinman, a New York national committeeman, said in a separate interview that after his state's 92-vote delegation has done its best to get the vice presidential nomination for Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York, "We will be flexible."

Although New York's Rockefeller has offered to help Michigan Gov. George Romney, there have been reports that the Empire State's votes could go to Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., if a stalemate develops between former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Romney.

A South Carolina committeeman, J. Drake Edens Jr., said he thinks Dixie delegations ought to remain flexible in their thinking about a nominee who could win in their area.

Edens said Nixon could win a plurality in his state with Johnson and Wallace on the ballot. But he made it clear he was not rejecting Romney, Percy or any other candidate out of hand.

The national committee appeared unlikely to make any major procedural changes to eliminate what former President Dwight D. Eisenhower calls the "disgraceful spectacle" of their presidential nominee conventions.

A convention reforms committee headed by Robert L. Pierce of Wisconsin prepared recommendations to cope with the rowdyism Eisenhower has said "appalls our own voters and creates a shockingly bad image abroad."

National Chairman Ray C. Bliss announced Sunday that San Francisco, Miami Beach, Seattle and Chicago are bidding for the party's 1968 convention. He said there have been feelers also from Houston and New York City. Bliss expects to name a convention site committee which he will head.

Crisis At California U.

87,000 Students To Plan Action In Kerr's Ouster

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Staggered by the surprise firing of President Clark Kerr of the University of California, leaders of 87,000 students on nine UC campuses planned mass meetings today to decide student action in the crisis. Also, the quest begins for Kerr's successor.

The Board of Regents, by a 14-to-8 vote, last Friday ended the 8½-year career of Kerr as president of the nation's biggest university system. Gov. Ronald Reagan, an ex-officio regent, voted against Kerr, 55.

Reagan said during his election campaign that Kerr permitted campus political activity in behalf of Reagan's Democratic opponent, then Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

"We have no plans for a protest today," said Dan McIntosh, student body president of the Berkeley campus, largest of the UC system.

McIntosh said he would call for a discussion of the Kerr ouster, along with Reagan's controversial proposals to charge tuition and cut the UC budget, both of which Kerr had pledged to fight.

At two campuses in Southern California there was talk of classroom boycotts to protest the firing of Kerr.

At Santa Barbara, student body president Jeff Jeffcoat urged organization of a university-wide boycott. And at Irvine, Dave Altschuler said his student group was pushing for an immediate one-day strike today.

Should protests of this kind materialize, it would be the first time in two demonstration-wracked years that Kerr would hear militant student support of himself. He has come under fire for the demonstrations that have hit Berkeley, and some believe this unrest contributed to the regents' decision to fire him.

Most of the student leaders appeared to take McIntosh's discussion-first view.

In a message addressed to regents over the weekend, 81 Berkeley professors said: "The nature and timing of the action taken Friday seem to give evidence of an attempt to exert political influence over the university.

"This cannot be tolerated from either the right or the left of the political spectrum.

"We call on regents to demonstrate that their action did not result from political pressures coming from the state administration in Sacramento."

Regents must knuckle down immediately toward choosing a new president. Faculty members, who will have their meeting Tuesday, hope to exercise strong influence in the choice.

Mrs. Edward H. Heller, a regent who voted against the dismissal, said with reference to the abruptness of the act: "It seems obvious to me we're not going to get a president of stature very quickly, no matter how much advice we get. It's going to take some time."

5 Western Europe Nations Bid To Cut Interest Rates

LONDON (AP) — In an effort to ease the cost of borrowing for their businesses and people, finance ministers of five major Western nations agreed Sunday night to cooperate to lower interest rates.

Britain's chancellor of the exchequer, James Callaghan, called the two-day conference with his colleagues from the United States, France, West Germany and Italy in an effort to achieve "a measure of disarmament" in the competition for money.

The ministers issued a cautiously worded communique agreeing "within the limits of their respective responsibilities to cooperate in such a way as to enable interest rates in their respective countries to be lower than they would otherwise be."

No date was set for cuts in interest rates, but one delegate explained that at least there was an improvement in the atmosphere, which had come close to an international rate war.

"You know now that if you start doing something, the roof won't fall in," he said.

It is hoped that cooperative efforts to lower or stabilize the interest rates will halt the flow of money from one country to another in pursuit of higher rates and produce more and cheaper credit in the home countries.

U.S. Secretary of the Treasury Henry Fowler attended the meeting hoping to persuade Europeans to check inflation through taxes and budget cuts rather than with high interest rates.

The New York Federal Reserve Bank interest rate now is 4½ per cent — the highest in years — but U.S. rates cannot be reduced unless European rates are cut. Otherwise more dollars would leave the United States and the U.S. balance of payments would go deeper into the red.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Folks: Oh my, let me tell you what I learned recently about ironing drip-drys . . . you know, that's some of the stuff that you're not supposed to have to iron.

When you can't get a wrinkle out of a drip-dry, try putting a folded bath towel or two over your ironing board, and then iron away!

This is the greatest!

The towel makes a cushion which a manmade fabric seems to need. When pressing "lons" on a silicone cover sometimes we just can't get the wrinkles out. So try the towel method next time. You'll be surprised how easy it is.

I recommend using a white bath towel because the dye from colored towels might come through and stain your lovely clothing.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I needed a gift card recently so I cut an inch piece from the top of some folded note paper that had very pretty flowers on it.

This gave me a lovely little gift card with room to write a personal message.

G. M. RUDDOCK.

-:-

DEAR HELOISE: When baking a chocolate cake, I dust my cake tins with cocoa rather than flour to make a more-chocolate-looking cake.

MRS. GEORGE DUNGAN.

DEAR HELOISE: As a first grade teacher, I try to keep children busy while helping them grow in ability.

One activity I used last year was simple and would be good for mothers . . . as children like to do things at home.

I made colorful beads from tiny, cut macaroni by dipping the macaroni in a mixture of food color and water.

Then I drained the macaroni on newspaper until completely dry and put it into small jars.

At school the children strung the macaroni on pre-cut lengths of lightweight string, the ends of which I made stiff by dipping them in glue and letting dry overnight.

Larger macaroni can be used for smaller fingers.

SANDRA STRAWN.

-:-

DEAR SANDRA: You certainly are a dedicated teacher! We parents really appreciate what you and the thousands of teachers like you are doing for our children.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: White gym shoes are the hardest thing in the world to keep clean. If you want to keep them spotless, it's necessary to wash them every night.

If you make it a habit to carry a small piece of white chalk in your purse and use it on those little spots, you can usually get by with washing them only once a week.

A TEEN.

-:-

DEAR HELOISE: I have a big round table that needed a pad. I took two plastic table clothes and put them together back to back with the felt on the outside. I then cut it to fit the table. This may be stitched or tacked together.

No spills go through. It is reversible and washes, too.

LOVING GRANDMA.

DEAR HELOISE: The following trick is not a timesaver, but a "wallsaver": Under a wide window in our kitchen eating area, I tacked up a flat, metal curtain rod (painted the color of the wall). When the current crop of art arrives from school, I hang the paintings on the rod with tiny magnets.

This has been so successful that our 8-year-old has one under his bedroom window for trophies, ribbons and other lightweight mementos.

MOMMY.

DEAR HELOISE: Here is an idea to keep block or brick cheese from getting hard: Spread some butter or margarine on the cut side of the cheese, wrap in foil or wax paper and put in the refrigerator.

No dried out cheese next time.

PHYLLIS ISLER.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

The Woman In The Mirror

"Will you please write more about will power. I read your column and get all pepped up about reducing. Then my will power wilts back into overeating and having consoling sweets and snacks.

Ida Jean Kain

"An actress claims to have lost weight by looking in a mirror and repeating over and over again that she did not like sweets and that she would not overeat. Will this help?" a reader asks wistfully.

Yes, provided you put your mind to it and back the plan with purposeful action. You might find it an exciting way to get on with slimming.

HOWEVER, consistency of purpose is de rigueur. It is so easy to set up objectives on a pleasant day - dreamy level. You see it in terms of what you intend to do by and by, which is merely a way of putting off the day of action. She uses the repetitio method to keep her goal ividly in mind.

An actress cannot indulge in such wishful thinking, for her career is at stake. If she doesn't watch her figure, nobody else will. Her instructions to the image in the mirror are so firm they add up to a command performance, to be followed through with disciplined action. She uses the repetition method to keep her goal vividly in mind.

Will power is linked with willingness. Reducing is a mental achievement. You have to think, talk and act in the direction you want to go.

How do you get your thinking on the right track? Examine your attitudes. Your attitude toward the project is more important than the number of pounds you need to lose. Why? Because some grudging attitude can keep you from taking action. To catch on to the hindering attitudes, be alerted to the justifications you make to yourself for not changing your ways of eating. Watch your inner "talking."

It helps enormously to objectify your attitudes, then you can deal with them with some measure of detachment. The whole purpose of this is to develop an awareness. Enlightened, you will be in an excellent position to give yourself instructions.

IT'S A great day when you decide to take charge of your life. With this resolve you harness your will to a pictured goal. Then you can look in the mirror and say to yourself with conviction, "I am eager to slim down and shape up. My happiness isn't in eating sweets. I want to be slim and feel young again!"

The power of a confident attitude approximates magic. You know you can do it!

Baker Resumes Defense Against Two Of Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bobby Baker resumes his witness chair defense today against charges of tax evasion and larceny of $80,000 in campaign contributions.

His chief lawyer, Edward Bennett Williams, is expected to wind up quickly his questioning in U.S. District Court of the former secretary to Senate Democrats.

Then it's up to Justice Department prosecutor William O. Bittman to try in cross-examination to shake Baker's story that he collected nearly $100,000 in campaign contributions from California savings and loan executives in late 1962 but turned the money over, as he was supposed to do, to the late Sen. Robert S. Kerr.

The California financiers earlier in the two-week-old trial testified the funds were intended for distribution to members of Congress. Kerr, an Oklahoma Democrat and oil-gas millionaire, died Jan. 1, 1963. Williams says a large part of the cash was found in Kerr's Washington safe deposit box.

The government charges Baker kept about $80,000 for his own uses, including financing of his hard-pressed Carousel Motel at Ocean City, Md.

Baker contends he overpaid his income taxes for 1961 and 1962.

Crisis At California U.

87,000 Students To Plan Action In Kerr's Ouster

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Staggered by the surprise firing of President Clark Kerr of the University of California, leaders of 87,000 students on nine UC campuses planned mass meetings today to decide student action in the crisis. Also, the quest begins for Kerr's successor.

The Board of Regents, by a 14-to-8 vote, last Friday ended the 8½-year career of Kerr as president of the nation's biggest university system. Gov. Ronald Reagan, an ex-officio regent, voted against Kerr, 55.

Reagan said during his election campaign that Kerr permitted campus political activity in behalf of Reagan's Democratic opponent, then Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

"We have no plans for a protest today," said Dan McIntosh, student body president of the Berkeley campus, largest of the UC system.

McIntosh said he would call for a discussion of the Kerr ouster, along with Reagan's controversial proposals to charge tuition and cut the UC budget, both of which Kerr had pledged to fight.

At two campuses in Southern California there was talk of classroom boycotts to protest the firing of Kerr.

At Santa Barbara, student body president Jeff Jeffcoat urged organization of a university-wide boycott. And at Irvine, Dave Altschuler said his student group was pushing for an immediate one-day strike today.

Should protests of this kind materialize, it would be the first time in two demonstration-wracked years that Kerr would hear militant student support of himself. He has come under fire for the demonstrations that have hit Berkeley, and some believe this unrest contributed to the regents' decision to fire him.

Most of the student leaders appeared to take McIntosh's discussion-first view.

In a message addressed to regents over the weekend, 81 Berkeley professors said: "The nature and timing of the action taken Friday seem to give evidence of an attempt to exert political influence over the university.

"This cannot be tolerated from either the right or the left of the political spectrum.

"We call on regents to demonstrate that their action did not result from political pressures coming from the state administration in Sacramento."

Regents must knuckle down immediately toward choosing a new president. Faculty members, who will have their meeting Tuesday, hope to exercise strong influence in the choice.

Mrs. Edward H. Heller, a regent who voted against the dismissal, said with reference to the abruptness of the act: "It seems obvious to me we're not going to get a president of stature very quickly, no matter how much advice we get. It's going to take some time."

States' Attitude Toward 1968

3 GOP Committeemen Set 'Flexibility' Slogan

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Three Republican national committeemen came up today with a "flexibility" slogan to describe the general attitude of state party leaders toward the 1968 GOP presidential nomination.

As the national committee begins its formal sessions, the feeling of most state committeemen and chairmen is that it still is too early to settle on the man most of them now think has a good chance to beat President Johnson next year.

With their eyes on the third party threat of former Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, Southern state representatives bore down on the theme of keeping their delegations flexible until they can see more clearly which Republican appears to be the strongest choice for GOP standard bearer.

Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas, also a committeeman, indicated he thinks Republicans would be stupid to overlook the qualifications of his brother, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. But he said he is waiting to see what happens in the next few months.

The Arkansas governor said shortly before the committee began its formal closed sessions that he probably will be a favorite son candidate in 1968. But he said he wants to decide which potential nominee is likely to win before he deposits his state's 18 convention votes.

George L. Hinman, a New York national committeeman, said in a separate interview that after his state's 92-vote delegation has done its best to get the vice presidential nomination for Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York, "We will be flexible."

Although New York's Rockefeller has offered to help Michigan Gov. George Romney, there have been reports that the Empire State's votes could go to Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., if a stalemate develops between former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Romney.

A South Carolina committeeman, J. Drake Edens Jr., said he thinks Dixie delegations ought to remain flexible in their thinking about a nominee who could win in their area.

Edens said Nixon could win a plurality in his state with Johnson and Wallace on the ballot. But he made it clear he was not rejecting Romney, Percy or any other candidate out of hand.

The national committee appeared unlikely to make any major procedural changes to eliminate what former President Dwight D. Eisenhower calls the "disgraceful spectacle" of their presidential nominee conventions.

A convention reforms committee headed by Robert L. Pierce of Wisconsin prepared recommendations to cope with the rowdyism Eisenhower has said "appalls our own voters and creates a shockingly bad image abroad."

National Chairman Ray C. Bliss announced Sunday that San Francisco, Miami Beach, Seattle and Chicago are bidding for the party's 1968 convention. He said there have been feelers also from Houston and New York City. Bliss expects to name a convention site committee which he will head.

Cincinnati Station Gets Promise Of Fund

NEW YORK (AP)—The Ford Foundation Sunday promised $50,000 to television station WCET, Cincinnati, Ohio if the station can raise $100,000 in cash or pledges by Feb. 8.

WCET, established in 1954, is the country's first educational television station. Loss of a school-fund proposition in the November elections has cut its income by $117,000—a third of its budget. The station was preparing last week to shut down.

Totem-Pole Carver Whittle Up Business

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — A totem - pole carver with a deft native touch is whittling up a pile of business in Nassau these days.

Totem poles ranging in size from four or five feet to a monstrous 14 feet are created for visitors by John Panza, 39, who has set up shop in downtown Nassau.

Panza says he has little or no competition "from other areas."

5 Western Europe Nations Bid To Cut Interest Rates

LONDON (AP) — In an effort to ease the cost of borrowing for their businesses and people, finance ministers of five major Western nations agreed Sunday night to cooperate to lower interest rates.

Britain's chancellor of the exchequer, James Callaghan, called the two-day conference with his colleagues from the United States, France, West Germany and Italy in an effort to achieve "a measure of disarmament" in the competition for money.

The ministers issued a cautiously worded communique agreeing "within the limits of their respective responsibilities to cooperate in such a way as to enable interest rates in their respective countries to be lower than they would otherwise be."

No date was set for cuts in interest rates, but one delegate explained that at least there was an improvement in the atmosphere, which had come close to an international rate war.

"You know now that if you start doing something, the roof won't fall in," he said.

It is hoped that cooperative efforts to lower or stabilize the interest rates will halt the flow of money from one country to another in pursuit of higher rates and produce more and cheaper credit in the home countries.

U.S. Secretary of the Treasury Henry Fowler attended the meeting hoping to persuade Europeans to check inflation through taxes and budget cuts rather than with high interest rates.

The New York Federal Reserve Bank interest rate now is 4½ per cent — the highest in years — but U.S. rates cannot be reduced unless European rates are cut. Otherwise more dollars would leave the United States and the U.S. balance of payments would go deeper into the red.

Junior Editors Quiz on FLIES

QUESTION: Are any flies useful?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Flies are usually thought of as pesky, irritating little busybodies who do nobody any good. Many of the different kinds, such as the house fly, can be described in just that way. Others, like the horse fly, are even worse, giving a painful bite. Some kinds can carry disease, first biting a diseased animal and carrying the infection to another, healthy animal. In spite of this, scientists tell us that most flies are harmless and some kinds are definitely useful, since they destroy other insects which are harmful to mankind. One of these "good" flies is the tachinid, the larvae of which destroy the harmful gypsy moth. Another is the syrphoid, whose larvae destroy aphid and scale insects. The little fruit fly, although it damages some fruit, is highly important to scientific research because it can be raised very easily and breeds so fast. The life cycle is only two weeks; therefore many breeding experiments can be carried on and much knowledge gained.

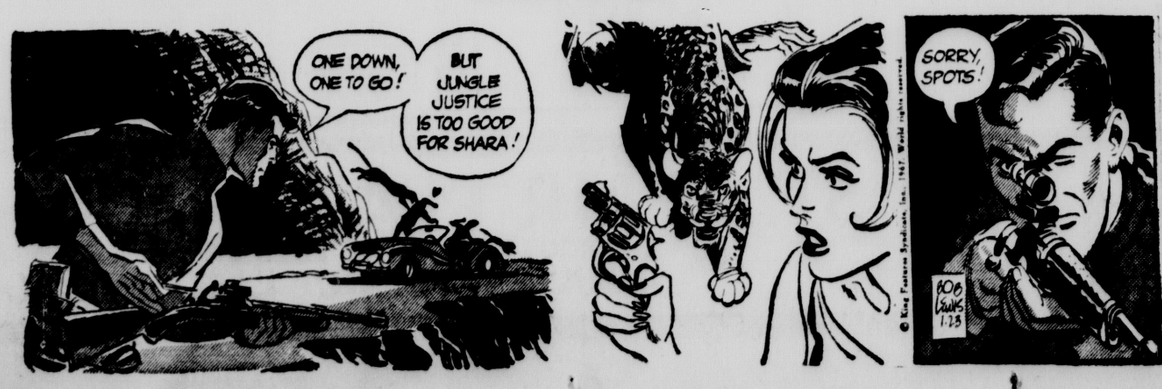
★ ★ ★

Gerri Ann Mountjoy of Bremerton, Wash., wins this week's grand prize of a 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review.

BEETLE BAILEY

BUZZ SAWYER

SECRET AGENT



How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—What is really the distinction between "ironing" and "pressing"?

A.—When pressing, you place your iron on the fabric, lift it, and place on the fabric again. When ironing, you push the iron back and forth. Pressing is used for all fabrics, ironing only for washable fabrics, also for smoothing out wrinkles and shaping a garment.

Q.—How can I remove rubber heel marks from floors?

A.—By wiping the spots with kerosene, turpentine, mineral spirits, or floor oil.

Q.—What suggsetions do you have for preparing savory French bread?

A.—This is prepared by slashing, not slicing, the bread into diagonal portions an inch wide. Slash it not quite through to the bottom crust. Spread the inside cut surfaces with melted butter in which you have placed a garlic clove as it melted. Bake at 325 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes.

Q.—What is the best way to saw a thin piece of metal with a hacksaw?

A.—Put the metal sheet between two blocks of wood, clamp in a vise and saw through both wood and metal. The wood will hold the metal firm, keeping the edges from bending with the strokes of your saw. Be sure your blade is inserted in your saw so that the cutting is done with the down stroke.

Q.—How can I test my refrigerator door to determine whether it has a tight seal?

A.—Close the door on a piece of tissue paper. Then, if the paper can be pulled out easily, it's time either for a new gasket or a door-latch adjustment.

Junior Editors Quiz on FLIES

QUESTION: Are any flies useful?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Flies are usually thought of as pesky, irritating little busybodies who do nobody any good. Many of the different kinds, such as the house fly, can be described in just that way. Others, like the horse fly, are even worse, giving a painful bite. Some kinds can carry disease, first biting a diseased animal and carrying the infection to another, healthy animal. In spite of this, scientists tell us that most flies are harmless and some kinds are definitely useful, since they destroy other insects which are harmful to mankind. One of these "good" flies is the tachinid, the larvae of which destroy the harmful gypsy moth. Another is the syrphoid, whose larvae destroy aphid and scale insects. The little fruit fly, although it damages some fruit, is highly important to scientific research because it can be raised very easily and breeds so fast. The life cycle is only two weeks; therefore many breeding experiments can be carried on and much knowledge gained.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—What is really the distinction between "ironing" and "pressing"?

A.—When pressing, you place your iron on the fabric, lift it, and place on the fabric again. When ironing, you push the iron back and forth. Pressing is used for all fabrics, ironing only for washable fabrics, also for smoothing out wrinkles and shaping a garment.

Q.—How can I remove rubber heel marks from floors?

A.—By wiping the spots with kerosene, turpentine, mineral spirits, or floor oil.

Q.—What suggsetions do you have for preparing savory French bread?

A.—This is prepared by slashing, not slicing, the bread into diagonal portions an inch wide. Slash it not quite through to the bottom crust. Spread the inside cut surfaces with melted butter in which you have placed a garlic clove as it melted. Bake at 325 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes.

Q.—What is the best way to saw a thin piece of metal with a hacksaw?

A.—Put the metal sheet between two blocks of wood, clamp in a vise and saw through both wood and metal. The wood will hold the metal firm, keeping the edges from bending with the strokes of your saw. Be sure your blade is inserted in your saw so that the cutting is done with the down stroke.

Q.—How can I test my refrigerator door to determine whether it has a tight seal?

A.—Close the door on a piece of tissue paper. Then, if the paper can be pulled out easily, it's time either for a new gasket or a door-latch adjustment.
